

De Gaulle Backed in First-Round Voting

Foes Badly Beaten in Balloting

BY GEORGE McARTHUR

Paris — (AP) — Premier De Gaulle, without having lifted a finger in the campaign, won another strong endorsement from the French people in first-round voting yesterday for the new national assembly.

With many candidates trying to ride De Gaulle's coat tails, outright foes of the premier made the poorest showing.

A strong rightist swing was accompanied by a communist decline, though the anti-Gaullist communists were still the strongest single party. Red chieftain Jacques Duclos faced a stiff fight in the runoff next Sunday.

The De Gaulle tide swamped such non-communist foes as former Premiers Pierre Mendes-France and Maurice Bourges-Maunoury. Both lost their assembly seats on the first ballot.

It boomed to second rank after the communists — a brand new De Gaullist party, the union for the new republic (UNR) headed by Information Minister Jacques Soustelle.

This was the clearest trend though only 41 of the 465 deputies from mainland France were elected yesterday by a majority vote over all opponents. The remainder will be chosen in runoffs next Sunday when a winner will need only a plurality.

Results in Brief
With only 20,994,797 of the 28 million eligible bothering to vote, the interior ministry gave this breakdown of the results:

Communists, elected 1 deputy, 3,882,204 popular votes, 18.94 per cent of the vote.
UNR, 8 deputies, 3,603,958 votes, 17.6 per cent.
Socialists, 2 deputies, 3,187,354 votes, 15.5 per cent.
Independents, mostly rightists, 15 deputies, 2,816,176 votes, 13.74 per cent.

The remaining votes were scattered among 14 other parties and groups.
The communist percentage compared with 25.6 in the last general election of 1956, and the red popular vote compared with their peak strength of 54 million votes in 1946. They held 142 seats in the old assembly.

Projection of the trend could cut the communists to below 30 seats.
Combine Against Reds
During the next week the rival candidates will be gang-ing up against the reds to trim their sails further in next Sunday's runoffs.

As an example, Duclos got some 8,000 votes less than the combined total of socialist Henri Frenay and the moderate, Dr. Jean-Pierre Profichet, in the red belt industrial suburb of Paris which has been Duclos' stronghold since the war. Next Sunday Profichet is likely to be the standard bearer against Duclos.

Maurice Thorez, the ailing communist veteran, was in less trouble in his industrial district because a unified opposition was less likely.

De Gaulle lent his name officially to none of the candidates. With issues few, candidates of all stripes grabbed his coat tails as the most attractive thing in sight.

The Post-Crescent sent Miss Betty Kilch, of the editorial staff, to Milwaukee to cover a 3-day meeting of the Wisconsin Welfare Council.

Her story on this morning's meeting appears on Page C 11.

Because of the change in the administration of the Wisconsin state government, many of the ideas expressed at this important meeting may influence decisions made in the legislature in its 1959 session.

Sentence Dillman To 25-Year Term

Youth Pleads Guilty of Second Degree Murder in Girl's Death

Oshkosh — Vernon Dillman, 22, today was sentenced to 25 years in prison for the tire iron slaying of his girl friend who had resisted his advances.

Dillman pleaded guilty of second degree murder in the death of Ruth Schmidt, 17, Oshkosh.

He will serve the indeterminate term at the state prison at Waupun.

The decomposed body of the girl was found by three pheasant hunters Oct. 28 just off town of Omro road. Dillman was arrested in Nebraska earlier this month and brought back to Winnebago county on a paternity warrant.

Municipal Judge S. J. Luchsinger asked Dillman if there was anything further he wished to say before sentence was imposed. Dillman answered, "I would like to be sentenced today, if I could, before I take further lie detector tests."

Signed Statement
Dist. Atty. Jack Steinhilber said further lie detector tests are being made at the request of Charles Wilson, director of the state crime laboratory at Madison, to better establish the motivation and for the benefit of similar cases in the future.

A lie detector test given Dillman at Madison Nov. 7 yielded sketchy information and had not been completed for lack of time. Dillman confessed to Winnebago county authorities the tire iron slaying of the Oshkosh girl after the first lie detector test and in questioning at Madison.

Judge Luchsinger said in sentencing Dillman "the court is satisfied there is no single extenuating circumstance in this case."

Dillman in his signed statement told how he met Miss Schmidt at the Char-Bar in Oshkosh the night of Aug. 15.

Laborites Air Peace Drive

Outline 6-Point Plan for Bringing End to Cold War

London — (AP) — The labor party today promised a British peace initiative to end the cold war if returned to power in national elections expected next year.

In an election manifesto that made no specific mention of the British-American alliance — traditional foundation stone of British foreign policy — the laborites pledged themselves to:

1. Urge that Formosa be placed under United Nations administration until its inhabitants "can decide their own future without intimidation."
2. Propose that the offshore islands of Quemoy and Matsu be evacuated by the Chinese nationalists and given to the Chinese Reds.
3. Campaign for the admission of communist China to the United Nations.
4. Suspend British nuclear tests at once.
5. Propose that all patrol flights with nuclear weapons be stopped immediately.
6. Propose establishment of a European neutral zone to remove the acute tension along the boundary dividing the North Atlantic Treaty Organization nations from the communist countries of eastern Europe. This zone would consist of East and West Germany, Poland, Czechoslovakia and Hungary.

Group Named To Evaluate Military Aid

President Appoints Former Officials To Make Study

Augusta, Ga. — (AP) — President Eisenhower today named a blue ribbon committee of former government officials to evaluate the U. S. military aid program in terms of how to strengthen national security.

The president announced the appointment of William H. Draper, Jr., a Republican who was undersecretary of the army in the Truman administration, to head the 9-member committee. The announcement came after Draper, who also has held positions in the Eisenhower administration, had conferred with Eisenhower at the Augusta National Golf Club.

In a "Dear Bill" letter to Draper, the president said: "What is needed from your committee is a forthright evaluation of the extent to which future military assistance can, by strengthening our friends and allies, advance U. S. national security and foreign policy interests."

Economy Drive
Appointment of the study committee comes in the midst of an Eisenhower drive to cut government spending.

But Draper told a news conference that on the basis of his talks with the president, "I understand this is to be neither an economy or anti-economy drive" so far as military assistance spending in the future is concerned.

Draper added that his committee's evaluation will be non-partisan, cold-blooded.

For the fiscal year which started July 1 the administration asked congress for $1,800,000,000, but the lawmakers cut the figure by $300 billion.

Draper replied he had no idea when asked whether he looks to spending in that area to be cut further in the next fiscal year.

Other Members
Members of the committee in addition to Draper are:

Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther (ret), former supreme commander of NATO forces in Europe, now president of the American Red Cross; Adm. Arthur W. Radford (ret), former chairman of the joint chiefs of staff; James E. Webb, who was undersecretary of state and budget director in the Truman administration;

John J. McCloy, U.S. high commissioner for Germany in 1949-53; now board chairman of the Chase Manhattan National Bank in New York; Dillon Anderson, former aide to Eisenhower on national security matters; Marx Leva, former assistant secretary of defense and now a Washington attorney; George C. McGhee, who in 1951-53 was U.S. commissioner and chief of the American mission for aid to Turkey, and Gen. Joseph T. McNarney (ret), commander of U.S. forces in Europe in 1945 and now a director of the General Dynamics Corp.

Named counsel of the new committee was Tracy Voorhees, undersecretary of the army in 1949-50. Col. George A. Lincoln, professor of social sciences at the U.S. military academy, was named the committee's study coordinator.

In addition to Draper, who also served as U.S. special representative to NATO in 1952-53, the White House listed McCloy as a Republican. Anderson, Leva, McGhee and Webb were listed as Democrats. No political affiliation was given for Radford, McNarney and Gruenther.

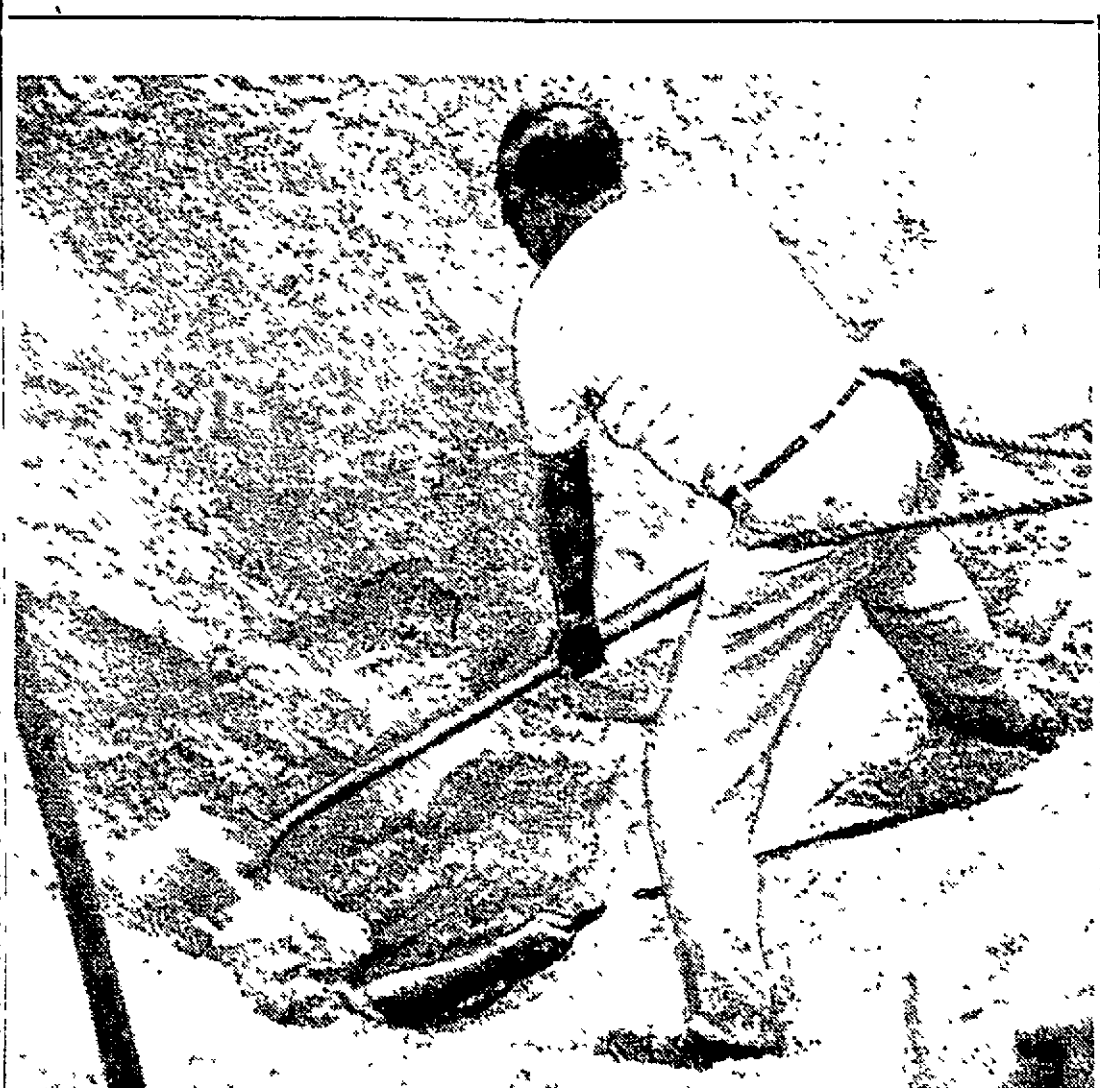

Try to Link Bombing With Safecracking

New Orleans — (AP) — FBI agents and police sought today to determine whether an attempted safecracking at Rabouin Vocational school was linked with a bomb explosion at a nearby public school medical building.

The homemade but powerful bomb exploded last night in an outside metal ventilator in front of a parking spot used by Dr. James F. Redmond, superintendent of New Orleans public schools.

The medical building, Rabouin school and the school board's central administrative office are located in the same area in downtown New Orleans.

Strike Launched at Second Large Airline

Volunteer Fireman Beauford B. Fletcher, Leesburg, Fla., digs sand away from the head of John Skinner, 46-year-old employee of a commercial sand company near Leesburg, who was buried in a sand pit after going in to try to loosen sand caked on vertical sides. Skinner holds onto rope while Fletcher keeps sand away from his head to permit him to breathe.

Pilots May Stop Work At American

By the Associated Press

With the Thanksgiving travel rush about to start, a second major airline was struck today. Flight engineers and machinists walked off their jobs at Eastern Airlines.

Trans World Airlines had 200 planes grounded in the fourth day of a strike by 6,700 machinists. American Airlines faced a strike threat by its pilots, with a prospect of an operational shutdown after a walkout deadline at midnight Tuesday.

A widespread rash of labor dispute tensions also was highlighted by shutdown today of the Studebaker-Packard automobile plant at South Bend, Ind., where 7,000 United Auto Workers quit their jobs.

There were strikes also in the farm equipment and tractor industry involving 50,000 UAW employees of International Harvester and the Caterpillar Tractor Co.

Prepare For Shutdown
The strike of 600 flight engineers at Eastern Airlines was supported by unions representing some 7,000 other employees. Eastern began preparations for a complete shutdown of its operations in 25 states, Canada, Puerto Rico, Mexico and Bermuda.

Machinists, who refused to cross picket lines, advised the company they were on strike, too.

In particular, the strike at Eastern hit the heavy seasonal migration of winter vacationers to Florida. The engineers' object to an airline deal that they take pilot wages and working conditions also were in dispute.

The TWA strike, which idled some 12,000 employees besides the 6,700 striking members of the International Association of Machinists, was the subject of a special government mediation effort.

Seeks Agreement
The federal mediation and conciliation service sent one of its top negotiators to the airline's Kansas City headquarters to seek a settlement.

As labor troubles also beset a few small airline companies, Capital Airlines resumed partial service after ending of a 37-day strike by 2,600 machinists. Normal passenger traffic was expected to be resumed Wednesday.

Capital machinists accepted a 41-cent-an-hour increase over a 3-year period, bringing their top pay to $2.95 an hour. A TWA spokesman said the company's final wage offer was almost the same as accepted by machinists of Capital and Northwest airlines.

The union's last contract with TWA provided for wages ranging from $1.45 an hour for kitchen helpers to $2.61 for machinists with 13 years experience.

At Indianapolis, 33 stewardesses of Lake Central Airlines struck at midnight in a dispute over wages. They hoped pilots would refuse to cross their picket lines and ground the line's aircraft in six midwest and eastern states. Picket lines were set up in Indianapolis, Chicago and Columbus, Ohio. The line also serves cities in Michigan, Pennsylvania and New York.

Nelson Sees Gap Between Spending Plans, Revenues

Governor-Elect Pledges Cost Cut Without Slash of Essential Services

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Madison — The prospective gap between state revenues and proposed expenditures is far greater than he had realized, Gov.-elect Gaylord Nelson discovered this morning as he started hearing requests of state departmentments to finance their activities at higher levels of spending for the next two years.

Nelson heard the total of a whopping increase in requested spending from the state department of budget and accounts, and promptly announced that he intends to "reduce expenditures without cutting essential services."

He was told by E. C. Giesmiller, state budget director, that departments have asked for a record $421 million for the biennium, against appropriations for the 2-year period now ending of about $340 million, or an increase of nearly one fourth.

Tops $200 Million
It was the first time state agencies in the aggregate had proposed spending at a $200 million a year level in the executive budget and the largest proposed boost in spending allowances in recent history.

Nelson considered only the so-called direct appropriations from the state general fund. Total current state

Nixon, Rockefeller Aim to Rebuild GOP

Republicans Reach Agreement To Avoid Stepping on Each Other's Political Toes Until '60

Washington — (U-P) Vice President Nixon and Nelson Rockefeller apparently have reached an understanding to avoid stepping on each other's political toes until 1960.

A weekend conference here between the vice president and the Republican governor-elect of New York produced an informal agreement pointed out publicly at cooperation between them in rebuilding the GOP from its heavy election defeats this year.

Rockefeller endorsed a thesis Nixon first advanced in October—that the party will be best served if it develops a number of men of national stature as possible presidential nominees for 1960.

While Nixon makes no secret that he wants that nomination, Rockefeller said he is interested only in doing a good job as governor of New York. Asked if this wasn't the best way to run for president, Rockefeller only grinned.

Won't Interfere

Rockefeller's statement that he intends to confine his activities to New York was taken as assurance he will not personally interfere in the spade work Nixon's supporters are engaged in elsewhere.

Nixon, on the other hand, obviously is not going to in-

Gunfire Cause Of Two More Hunter Deaths

Heart Attacks Take 12 Lives; 10 Others Die of Wounds

Milwaukee — (U-P) Gunfire caused the deaths of two Wisconsin deer hunters during the weekend, while two other hunters died of heart attacks and another man was asphyxiated.

The death count for Wisconsin's 16-day deer season, which began Nov. 15, climbed to 23—ten hunters shot to death, 12 victims of heart attacks and one death by asphyxiation.

Roy Christensen, 30, Weymouth, died in a Madison hospital Sunday of a bullet wound he suffered Nov. 18 while hunting near Bear Bluff in Jackson county.

Mark Bastian, 45, Marinette, was shot to death last Saturday while hunting in Marinette county.

Leland L. Reagles, 33, Madison, died in his auto where he apparently used a charcoal burner to keep him warm while sleeping in his car in Juneau county. Authorities said the hunter died of asphyxiation.

The body of John A. Graff, 65, route 2, Camp Douglas, was found Saturday in a swamp in Juneau county. A heart attack was blamed for the death. A bottle of heart medicine was in his pocket.

Pete Fraley, 45, Antigo, died of a heart attack Saturday while hunting Langlade county.

Script Writer Sues

Audie Murphy for $130,750 in Back Pay

Los Angeles — (U-P) A writer has sued actor Audie Murphy for $130,750.

Paul Kazear's complaint asks the sum for his work in preparing a script for a projected movie, "Skin Diver with a Heart."

Kazear said, for loans at New London, Murphy, most decorated U.S. soldier of World War II, employed him June 1 but that he has received no compensation.

Nelson A. Rockefeller, governor-elect of New York, and Vice President Richard Nixon talk politics in the vice president's Washington office. Rockefeller said they agreed to work together toward rebuilding the Republican party. The two men are regarded in some quarters as potential rivals for the 1960 GOP presidential nomination.

Charge Executive With Handling Stolen Bonds

Claim Boston Man Used Loot From Two Canada Robberies as Loan Collateral

New Haven, Conn. — (U-P) The government has charged a Boston executive with receiving several bonds taken in multi-million-dollar robberies of two Canadian banks.

Bernard J. Ezhaya, 45, president of Industrial Relations Associates Inc. of Boston, was arrested at his New London home by agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

He was arraigned here before U.S. Commissioner Robert H. Alcorn, who bound Ezhaya over to U.S. district court under $50,000 bond. Ezhaya is charged with violating a statute forbidding the interstate transportation of stolen property.

Loan Collateral

Special FBI Agent Edward J. McCabe said Ezhaya used the stolen bonds as collateral for loans at New London banks. He said $76,000 in stolen bonds had been recovered from the banks.

At his arraignment, Ezhaya's counsel denied the government's charge that the father of five children had entered into a "devious scheme" to get money from the bonds. The counsel, Boston Lawyer Joseph Balliro, pictured Ezhaya as "an unfortunate dupe of someone else."

"He obtained the bonds from an equally well respected man," said Balliro. He did not blame the other man.

The government said the bonds were part of a $1,789,400 burglary from the Societe Nationale De Fiducie de Montreal early this year, and a $2,250,000-or-more burglary of the Brockville Trust and Savings company of Brockville, Ontario, last May.

Canadian authorities said $792,000 had been recovered from the former robbery after raids had been conducted in Switzerland, New York City, Miami and Montreal. Six persons have been arrested.

Union Organized

Canadian sources said the Brockville burglary may have netted far more than the estimated $2,250,000 — maybe up to $10 million. At least seven millions, most in registered securities, have been recovered.

Ezhaya was a union organizer before he entered his present business, New London authorities said.

They said he helped organize the AFL metal trades council there during World War II, and that he was later active in union work in Boston and Providence, R.I.

Ezhaya was charged with two counts of attempting to dispose of the securities. The maximum penalty for each count is a $10,000 fine or 10 years in jail, or both.

Bad Feeling Between Nasser and Tunisians Aroused to New Pitch

Egyptian Officers Arrested for Attempting to Stir Up Rebel Bands

Tunis — (U-P) Bad feeling between the governments of Tunisia and the United Arab Republic increased today after Tunisia's arrest of several Egyptian officers charged with trying to stir up Algerian rebels against their own leaders.

President Habib Bourguiba said in a speech at Gabes Sunday that Tunisian police made the arrests. But he gave no details as to the number arrested, where they were being held or the purpose of their alleged activities against the Algerian leaders.

Ridiculous Comedy

U. A. R. Information Director Saad Afra said in Cairo that the charge was a "ridiculous comedy" invented by Bourguiba to further his efforts to get arms from the western powers.

Last March, Bourguiba charged President Nasser's government connived with Tunisians opposed to him in a plot to kill him and overthrow his government.

Last month Bourguiba's delegation walked out of an Arab league meeting in Cairo, charging Nasser was trying to dictate to the league. Tunisia broke relations with Cairo soon after.

Tunisia and the U. A. R. are rivals to influence the new Algerian government-in-exile proclaimed in Cairo. Bourguiba wants to incline the Algerians to the west and away from Moscow and Cairo, and hopes eventually for an Algerian-Tunisian-Moroccan federation. So far the exile government has not made a definite choice between Cairo and Tunis for its headquarters.

East, West Arms

In an effort to get arms for his ill-equipped army, Bourguiba announced recently that he was turning to Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia.

He said yesterday Tunisia would have arms from "both east and west" before the end of this year. So far he has received less than 1,000 rifles and automatic guns from Britain and the United States for his 6,000-man army. He wants enough for a force of 20,000 men.

Audit Bureau of Circulations

Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.), who won reelection this month in the face of a national Democratic sweep, said yesterday Nixon is "my candidate" now for the presidential nomination.

Visits London

Goldwater said that Rockefeller should receive consideration in 1960 if he does a good job as governor and, as Goldwater put it, doesn't "take up the radical cry of the Democrats."

Nixon, who leaves today with Mrs. Nixon for a visit to London, already is giving thought to presidential primaries two years hence.

He probably will enter several primaries if this seems necessary at the time.

He obtained the bonds from an equally well respected man," said Balliro. He did not blame the other man.

Couple Nearing Goal Of 2 Dozen Children

Dallas — (U-P) Mrs. Marvin Ramer, 42, told her husband when they got married that she wanted two dozen children. She is nearing her goal.

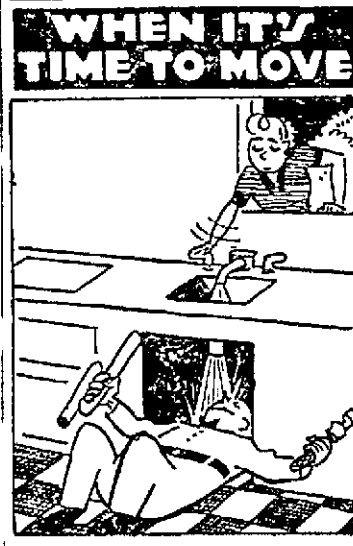

Saturday Mrs. Ramer's 18th child, a 7-pound, 14-ounce boy, was born at St. Paul's hospital here.

Recalling his wife's statement, Ramer said yesterday, "she wasn't kidding. Why, I just laughed when she said it." He said he never made any definite plans about the number.

For the second time in as many years the Ramers received maternity service at St. Paul with no charge. Attendants explained that over the years the Ramers had paid enough.

Ramer is a machinist with a pipe line construction company.

Son's 18-Year Probe of His Dad's Death Ends in Court

Crestview, Fla. — (U-P) Sheriff Ray Wilson's probe of his father's 18-year-old slaying has ended in conviction of two Crestview brothers.

The Okaloosa county officer was a 12-year-old boy when he was shotgun blast fatally wounded by a police officer in the slaying of his father, Sheriff Ray Wilson.

The boy grew up, became sheriff two years ago and launched a new investigation that reached out as far as Texas and North Carolina for witnesses.

A circuit court jury yesterday found Jesse Cayson, 55, and Cayson's brother, Doyle, 51, guilty of first degree murder in the 1940 killing. It recommended mercy, which means sentences of life imprisonment for both men. Neither showed any emotion.

Plan Appeal

The Caysons' lawyer, Thomas B. Bessley, of Defunk Springs, drew from five jurors admissions that they referred to the jury room to notes.

Bessley told newsmen "I most certainly will appeal this verdict."

William Dorace Brown, 49, Escambia county jail, Pensacola, accused of the Caysons, was acquitted. He wept when Judge Erwin Fleet the verdict was announced by set Dec. 1 for sentencing.

A prosecution witness, Mrs. Mattie Lee Taylor Boeck of San Antonio, Texas, testified she saw the three defendants in a cafe the night of the slaying and later saw them follow Wilson in a car with lights off.

Mrs. Boeck said she was beaten up later that night by an unidentified assailant who threatened worse "if you don't forget what you saw tonight."

Another Witness

Another prosecution witness, Mrs. Marjorie King of Rocky Mount, N.C., said she heard three men urge Jesse Cayson to go to the state mental hospital at Chattahoochee because they had heard he was going around the county saying he had shot Wilson.

Cayson testified he was sent to the hospital in 1943 because admissions that they referred to the jury room to notes.

Both Caysons and Brown contended they were elsewhere when Wilson was killed.

The Caysons were lodged in William Dorace Brown, 49, Escambia county jail, Pensacola, accused of the Caysons, was acquitted. He wept when Judge Erwin Fleet the verdict was announced by set Dec. 1 for sentencing.

Garner, 90, Former Vice-President, Honored on Birthday

Uvalde, Texas — (U-P) Former Vice President John Nance Garner resumed today the quiet life he has led since his retirement in 1941 — the excitement of his 90th birthday celebration Saturday still fresh in his memory.

Yesterday the former vice president carefully put away the new tailored suit he wore at the party and said, "I am going to wear that suit on my 100th birthday."

The nation's top Democrats had gathered here to join Uvalde residents in observing Garner's 90th milestone.

Former President Harry Truman, senate majority leader Lyndon Johnson (D-Texas), house speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Texas), Sen. Ralph Yarborough (D-Texas) and Gov. Price Daniel were among those who lauded Garner.

Garner was born in Boston and started out as a newspaper reporter and later advertising man there. He was a master of dialects and made an immediate hit as a comedian when he appeared as a guest on the Eddie Cantor show in the early 1930s.

After calling for a doctor, Garner asked the audience if anyone had any nitro-glycerin pills, used by persons with heart conditions. More than a dozen men came forward with such pills.

In addition to the doctors, a rescue squad from the Beverly Hills fire department

Labor Unions Spent Millions In Elections

Georgia Judge Blasts Voluntary Theory Of Contributions

Washington — At least $5,000,000 were spent by labor unions in the recent congressional campaign, in which they generally supported the Democratic party candidates. When final reports are filed, these may show that as much as Lawrence $10,000,000 — more than the regular organizations of both political parties together collected — was expended throughout the nation by labor unions, though it may be difficult to get a complete accounting. The AFL - CIO in preliminary reports has shown an expenditure for congressional candidates of about $1,200,000, but money presumably spent for state candidates has not yet been compiled, though the same effort helps federal candidates simultaneously. It has been admitted already in the official records at Sacramento to that nearly $1,900,000 was spent by the labor unions in California alone. The federal statutes and many state laws forbid contributions to political campaigns by either corporations or labor unions, but the department of justice here for some unexplained reason has not pressed before grand juries the prosecution of those who are engaged today in what by some current definitions might be called a massive resistance to the law of the land. A Georgia court has just declared compulsory union membership to be unconstitutional when it includes the use of dues money for political purposes. Over the weekend the oral remarks made by Judge O. L. Long in the superior court at Macon, Ga., have become available. He demolishes the argument that the contributions of labor-union members are always voluntary. Several union members had complained to the court that their dues were being extorted from them in order to propagate political views to

Pope John Will Celebrate 77th Birthday Tomorrow

Vatican City — Pope John XXIII will be 77 tomorrow — and may have to be reminded it's his birthday, Vatican aides say. He has been too busy in his first month as pontiff to make any personal plans for the day. He may, at the last minute, call in one or two friends for a quiet meal. His three brothers and one sister, last of a family of 12 children, will not be here. They, and hundreds of towns-men from his native village of Sotto Il Monte and his province of Bergamo, are coming down by special train Dec. 6, instead, to give him a golden crown. Oldest Pope John XXIII was older, at the time of his election Oct. 28, than any other newly elected pope since Clement XII in 1730. Clement was 78 when he became pontiff. But with an energy that belies his years, sturdy Pope John has held to a work schedule that allows only six hours sleep a night, and already has set several precedents. A week ago he called a consistory for Dec. 15 to create 23 new cardinals and increase the size of the sacred college. portion of the dues of the plaintiffs was turned in to the AFL-CIO. He noted that the controller of the AFL-CIO had testified that a substantial portion of the expenses of "COPE," a political education committee of the AFL-CIO, were paid "directly out of the general funds of the AFL-CIO" derived originally from dues. If corporations were found to be using stockholders' money for any similar purpose or using their corporate power to coerce individuals to contribute to political campaigns, there certainly would be a howl, but, when national labor unions do it, one wonders how they get away with it. The case in the Georgia States on an appeal now being filed. The high court will have to rule on whether the civil rights of union members and their property are being taken away from them without "due process of law" as the phrase is used in the Fifth amendment to the constitution. Used Car Good Buy In Britain London — Things are tough in Britain's used car market. If you drop a couple of coins near a used car lot you may make a deal. For instance, Passing a used car lot, 16-year-old Maurice Ratcliffe pointed to a 1935 model and joked: "I'll give you 7 shillings and 6 pence (about $1) for that one." It was no joke to the auto dealer, who responded: "Make it 8 shillings and 6 pence ($1.19)." "It's a deal," said Maurice. He only had the equivalent of 35 cents in his pocket. They agreed that should be the down payment. Now Maurice is paying off the balance at one shilling (14 cents) a week. The slump has mainly hit autos about 20 years old. These used to sell for $140-200. For that amount now, with installment buying restrictions off, you can make a down payment on a new auto or one only a couple of years old. Anyway the finance companies aren't interested in financing $150 deals unless there's a substantial first payment. Sometimes the bargains are real finds. David Lalor bought a 1937 car for 9 pence (11 cents). Cleaning behind the back seat he found 7 pence (8 cents) that had fallen out of a passenger's pocket in the dim and distant past.

Welfare Building Requests

One of the reasons for a considerable rise in the cost of the state government during the last decade and a half has been a capital construction program of greater scope and importance than achieved during any comparable period in our history.

About $50 million has been invested since the end of World War II in new buildings and equipment and reconstruction of plant at the state mental, penal and other institutions for the care of state wards and dependents.

The taxpayer who has been busily digging down for his share of the levies that have financed these enormous investments might have supposed, optimistically, that the needed job is nearly done. Not so. The state welfare administration has recently prepared a long-range building prospectus that contains dozens of additional building projects, including some for purposes that have never before seen the light of day or have never before been seriously proposed in the statehouse.

We suppose Welfare Director Wilbur Schmidt shares some of the bureaucratic instincts that are common to officialdom, but on the whole we have observed him as a man of judgment and prudence. What then of the fate of these propositions, cogently and persuasively defended as they are by Schmidt, his backers in the welfare organization lobbies, and by some legislators who as members of interim committees have troubled to audit them in detail?

The realistic conclusion is the same that can be submitted in response to even larger requests from the university and state colleges, the clamor of the municipal lobbies for state financing arrangements to permit local property tax relief, and the plethora of other spending demands that are descending on the legislature and the state administration.

They cannot be had — without facing up to the facts of the state's fiscal machinery. They cannot be done — within the present limited framework of state taxation. The normal growth in state operations is such as to forewarn us of painfully steep increases in present state taxes. The normal expansion of local government, and notably the schools, is such as to make further boosts in property levies inevitable.

Capital appropriations of the multi-million dollar sums required are simply and obviously and demonstrably out of the question, until the legislature faces up to the need for fundamental reform of Wisconsin's system of taxation. It is a point that requires repetition, for even some of the most learned of our spenders appear unable to comprehend it.

Death in the Woods

The present deer hunting season in Wisconsin was less than three days old when the toll of dead and wounded among the hunters had exceeded the same figures for the entire 9-day season last year. With that start it appears that the total this year will far exceed the figures for last year. This year we not only have the usual 9-day season across the northern counties, but we will also have an additional week of shooting in some counties north of Highway 8.

However, the final total of dead and wounded may not be as great as indicated by the first three days of shooting. It is pretty well known among hunters that most of the shooting accidents take place during the first few days of each season. This of course is due to the fact that most of the inexperienced and unskilled hunters are abroad at that time.

However the toll of dead from gunshot wounds, which had reached eight during the first five days, is too much. If all the hunters who went into the woods were experienced and if all were well aware that a severe penalty would be imposed on them for any carelessness with a gun, it is quite likely that the report would be different.

This season there were numerous cases of hunters being shot down by their companions or others because they were mistaken for a deer or a bear. Since the law limits the shooting to a buck with a 3-inch antler it is difficult to understand how anyone can mistake another human being for a deer if he is looking close enough to see that the deer has a 3-inch antler. Likewise a hunter in a red suit doesn't look much like a black bear.

There is not very much that can be done about the situation this year; the best we can do is hope that the inexperienced and careless hunters will have become discouraged and will have departed for their homes shortly and thus will have reduced the hazards of hunting for others. Some of the deaths, of course, have been caused by stray bullets. The experienced hunter who takes the time to recognize a buck with a 3-inch antler is not likely to send a bullet crashing off two or three miles into the woods with the possibility that it may ricochet off into a passing automobile or perhaps even into a peaceful farm home.

Probably it will never be possible to turn loose 300,000 hunters with high powered rifles without some accidents taking place. But the more training the hunters have had, the less likely they are to injure others. If we can find a way to give prospective hunters some training in the use of a gun before they enter the woods and then impress on them that they are to be held accountable for any careless acts which may injure themselves or others, the situation will be vastly improved.

The Lawyers' Closed Shop

The "right-to-work" argument has involved the question of whether working people should be forced to join unions to hold their jobs. As in any public question, a good many lawyers have taken part in this debate on both sides, either as paid spokesmen of a cause or as individuals expressing their own opinions. Lawyers as a group tend to be conservative and we wouldn't be surprised to find that a substantial number of Wisconsin's lawyers favor a right-to-work law.

It is interesting, therefore, that the state's lawyers have adopted a closed shop of their own. Last year the Wisconsin Bar association persuaded the Supreme Court to hold that any one wishing to practice law in Wisconsin must not only be licensed as a lawyer, but also must be a dues-paying, paid-up member of the WBA. Any lawyer who for whatever reason prefers not to join the WBA cannot earn a living at his chosen profession in this state. The annual bill for WBA dues that each lawyer receives now has, in effect, the police power of the state behind it — pay up or go out of business.

The Supreme Court did not bother to explain why, among the hundreds of professional, business and other kinds of organizations in Wisconsin the WBA alone should be given this tremendous power. Defenders of this "integrated bar" system mumble something about the need to curb unethical practices among attorneys. Yet we fail to see how forcing men to join an association is any more effective in this regard than the old system under which a Board of Bar Commissioners, appointed by the Supreme Court, took care of discipline matters.

If all lawyers must belong to the WBA, why should not all doctors be forced to join the state medical society, or chiropractors the chiropractic association, or undertakers the morticians' league, or newspaper publishers the Wisconsin Daily Press association? What is it about lawyers that makes them so different that they must have a closed shop enforced by the highest court in the state?

This, to us, is additional evidence that empire-building proclivities are not limited to government bureaucrats, but seem to flower in the breast of anyone who becomes an officer or director of almost any kind of organization. We Americans have become the most organized people in history; we have a deep yearning to "belong" that is, we imagine, fascinating to social psychologists and a national trait that no one has yet adequately explained. And in this mad race to organize there almost always crops up the instinct to organize our fellows; we doubt if there is an organization among us in which, at some directors' meeting, there has not been discussed some means of forcing recalcitrants or the simply independent-minded to join up.

The lawyers who put over the integrated bar idea undoubtedly sincerely believe they have contributed something to the stability of their profession, and to the protection of the public in its dealings with attorneys. But if this kind of thinking spreads to other sections of the populace it can only lead to super-organizations and super-super-organizations with the police power of government behind them, and in the end we will have achieved something akin to Mussolini's dream of a "corporate state."

Wants Ban on Bridal Chases After Weddings

In Indiana a few days ago, the pursuit of a wedding couple ended in an auto crash that took the life of the bride. No such tragedy has occurred in this region, but the makings of one are with us daily.

The traditional chase is a common sight on the public highways. The bridal car, decorated with streamers, races along, often on congested city streets. In its wake is a procession of horn-tooting cars.

It's a custom that has no place in this day of swift autos and heavy traffic. An official ban, supported by strict enforcement of the motor vehicle laws, is in order. Better to kill a little joy than risk the lives of human beings.

Soviets Attack West's Economy

Russia recently has expanded her economic attacks on the west into the metals field by "dumping" aluminum, platinum and tin onto the world market.

Aluminum, for instance, is being sold at 20 per cent below United States prices and this strategy is expected to be extended next to copper, lead, zinc and other metals.

As the price of Russia's export aluminum is 60 per cent below the domestic price, there can be little doubt that these export sales are warfare. This is just one more indication that Russia and her satellites are implacable foes of the Western world, a fact which still seems to escape some Americans.

'Why Don't You Move Out and Stop Torturing This Poor Guy?'

What Others are Saying

Differences With Churches Doesn't Mean Pastors are Communists

Ross Barnett, a probable candidate for governor of our state in next year's election, told men of the Van Winkle Baptist church Monday night that communists are exploiting church personnel to "front for their fight for integration."

Mr. Barnett is quoted as adding:

"The deeper Moscow's religious fifth columns penetrate our churches, the more they can manipulate our leaders into urging integration of the races.

"What better cloak of legitimacy can be found for their programs than to present them as the offering of clergymen and churches? The strategy of the communists to get others to front for them and do their dirty work cannot be underestimated."

Mr. Barnett in making his speech may have had a quite different purpose from that which his words of warning seem to convey.

But with Gov. Orval Faubus' attempt to smear some of the Little Rock clergy still in mind, Mr. Barnett's words may leave to some the impression that if any of our ministers favor integration, they do so at the bidding of communists rather than on the basis of their interpretation of the teaching of Jesus.

And with that impression we cannot go along. For we do not believe Mr. Barnett or anyone else can name a single communist minister in Mississippi or the south.

Nor do we believe that any white minister in the south who may happen to believe in the righteousness of integration is getting his orders from Moscow rather than from his understanding of the will of God.

During the very difficult years immediately ahead we in the south must learn to recognize that not everyone will see things alike and that often the specialized background of an individual will be responsible for the difference in his view points.

Ministers of God frequently do not look at problems in the same light that laymen do.

Many, for example, consider dancing or playing bridge a sin. And though countless thousands of laymen may disagree with pastors holding this view, the ministers are considered sincere and their stand worthy of respect even by those who may not agree with it.

Similarly, if some ministers interpret the teachings of Jesus as supporting integration and some interpret those same words as supporting segregation, each group must be respected for the sincerity of its beliefs.

And neither group should be branded as being dominated by communists or acting as a communist front merely because they interpret God's word in a way that is different from our own.

Regardless of what our fight may be — whether against communism or any other pagan creed known to the world — the church through the years has been our strongest weapon against evil.

And if we desire to defeat communism not only in this country but throughout the world, it is absolutely imperative that we strengthen the church in every way possible rather than undermining it with thoughtless smears.

We may not at all times agree with our minister . . . But never let us thoughtlessly imply that the church of our Lord is in any way tied in with or dominated by pagan communism.

Looking Backward

Wood-Yard Business Opens

79 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for the week of Nov. 29, 1879.

Mr. W. E. Alvord, an energetic young man, has taken the lots near the former Basket Factory and established a wood-yard for the benefit of a large class of our population who want their wood delivered to their residences, having no time to hunt wood and then find a man to cut it up for them.

It is a wonder that someone has not engaged in this business some time ago. The opening is a good one and we have no doubt of the ability of young Mr. Alvord. He will furnish good wood, cut to stove length and deliver it to any part of the city on short notice. Orders may be left with Billy Montgomery at his Drug Store or with W. F. Johnston.

25 YEARS AGO

Monday, Nov. 20, 1933

With pickets off the highways and special deputies dismissed, farm produce in Outagamie County and all over Wisconsin wended its way to market without organized opposition of farm strikers. Within a few hours after a farm strike truck was ordered at Madison Saturday night by a committee of the Wisconsin Cooperative Milk Pool and the Farmers' Holiday association, markets everywhere approximated normal.

Organization of Scout Troop 16 of All Saints Episcopal church was to be undertaken at a meeting of the troop committee. Members of the committee were Don Purdy, Charles Seaborn, Norman de C. Walker and R. K. Wolter.

Louis Jeske, new commander of Harvey Pierre post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States, was to preside at his first meeting that night.

Lucille Heinrich was installed as president of the junior unit of American Legion auxiliary. Mrs. Harold W. Miller, Ninth district president, was the installing officer.

Mayor F. O. Heckrodt, Menasha, was to attend a meeting of mayors and county board chairmen of the state with the Wisconsin industrial commission at Madison.

Thomson Speaks Up to Keep His Record Clear

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison — The critical statements coming from Gov. Vernon W. Thomson about the proposed program and policies of Gov.-Elect Gaylord Nelson are subject to two possible interpretations.

It may be a sign, as some have assumed, that Thomson does not intend to end his own political career because of his rejection at the polls this fall.

But more likely as an explanation is that the defeated governor is trying to make sure that Nelson cannot put the blame for his own impending difficulties in state financial management upon the performance and record of the Republican administrations of recent years and more particularly, upon the departing Thomson administration.

Thomson is anticipating what he regards as Nelson's basic political strategy — to convince the electorate that the painful problems of the next two years relate to Thomson's delinquencies rather than to Nelson's commitments and more particularly the commitments of the victorious Democratic party.

Wyngaard

the problems of the next. Indeed, there is an explicit provision in the state constitution for the levying of enough taxes during each biennium for the financial needs of that biennium. The basic law of the state does not contemplate or approve surpluses of substantial size.

TURN-ABOUT

The new state leader of the Democratic party which stood for higher spending, express or implied, during its successful campaign for votes is now throwing out hints about "holding the line" in state spending.

That will be a painful piece of news for those lobbies that expected to be treated more handsomely by the new regime.

Gov. Thomson's interest in the situation is a real one, and a defensible one.

If the state employees don't get the salary boosts they hoped for, and if the teachers don't get the raises they were promised, and if the state institutions are not permitted to expand as they had hoped, he wants to be sure that Nelson doesn't get away with putting the blame on the Thomson regime.

That is a perfectly natural instinct for a man who is interested in his record in history.

It is a more natural and necessary position for the man who may not be ready to concede that his own career is over. There will be another election in 1960. While it may not seem likely that the Republican party will turn to Thomson in view of his defeat if there are other plausible choices available, it remains a possibility. The time to keep the record straight is now, while the executive office continues to command some publicity resources. After the turn of the year it will be hard to get into the papers from a law office in Richland Center.

THE OUTLOOK

Nelson has been talking in his post-election press releases about the gravity of the state's financial outlook, the enormous spending demands and needs in contrast with the limited resources of the present pattern of state revenues.

As generalizations, these statements are fair enough.

But there is nothing novel about these discoveries that Nelson appears to be making. They were reasonably evident to any observant onlooker for months. They are inherent in today's society.

These grave problems would have faced Thomson during his second term, too, had he been given a second term by the electorate.

The implication that the administration of the last two years owed anything to the next is both unrealistic and unfair. All of the bills of the present administration will be paid at the end of the fiscal period next July 1 for which it was responsible. There is no precedent, in law or in politics, for the accumulation of a huge surplus during one term to cushion

Urge MD's Interest in Politics

The physician's role as a citizen, in the political theatre about to open, need not be the principal one, nor should it be one of silent observation. Too long have physicians held that medicine and politics are not miscible. Like the popular conception about the ostrich avoiding all difficulties by burying his head in the sand, so also does the concept of medicine and politics not mixing, lack in logic.

We as physicians have spent many long years of preparation to practice medicine, and would be most happy to be able to practice sound medicine without interference from politicians, government, cultists, dogooders and effervescent social, or should I say socialist workers.

Such, however, is not the case; and it becomes necessary, as a matter of self preservation, for the physician to take an active part in being a citizen and a voter lest the politician take over.

It is not enough for the physician to be just a good physician treating the ills of his patients according to accepted standards of sound, scientific, medical teaching. He must not only have knowledge of all national, state and local legislation, but he must also know the men seeking office, their attitude towards medicine, their opinion relative to the free enterprise system which built our country. All this and more, the physician as a citizen owes to himself and to those who seek his advice on matters political.

spending is at the rate of about $500 million a year, including such big segregated funds as the highway and conservation departments.

The governor - elect again warned that he intends to plan his own financial program on a 1-year basis. Although he will submit what is technically a 2-year budget, according to law, he will consider the second year appropriations later and submit supplementary recommendations to the legislature late in 1959, probably in a special session. The regular biennial session starts in January and usually lasts six months.

The Democratic governor-elect was friendly and courteous as a parade of officers of the Republican state administration turned up early this morning to explain their programs and their spending requests. Nelson came with a long series of prepared penetrating questions.

His questions indicated he is serious about a reshuffling of agencies and functions.

Asthma Formula Prescribed Most By Doctors—Available Now Without Prescription

Stops Attacks in Minutes... Relief Lasts for Hours!

New York, N. Y. (Special)—The asthma formula prescribed more than any other by doctors for their private patients is now available to asthma sufferers without prescription.

Medical tests proved this formula stops asthma attacks in minutes and gives hours of freedom from recurrence of painful asthma spasms. This formula is so effective that it is the physicians' leading asthma prescription—so safe that now it can be sold—without prescription—in tiny tablets called Primatene.

which he proposed during his successful campaign against Republican Gov. Vernon W. Thomson.

He was flanked by Lt. Gov. elect Phil Lee Nash, Wisconsin Rapids; Joe E. Nusbaum, recently named as his financial adviser; State Sen. Lynn Stalbaum, Racine, expected to be the Democratic leader in the legislative finance committee; Giessell and J. J. Keliher, the state auditor.

Nelson queried officials closely on the state building program and borrowing by state agencies for state buildings through quasi-private building corporations. During the political campaign he denounced what he called "boot-leg" debts and said he would ask for regular state bond issues through a change in the Wisconsin constitution which now prohibits a direct state debt.

No Accounting Questioning of Giessell developed the fact that there is now no central accounting of the building corporation debt of state agencies. Each department maintains its own records.

(During the campaign Nelson complained that such state debts had risen to $50 million.)

Keliher told Nelson that because the state building operations are legally private he does not feel he has the right to audit their expenditures.

He said the University of Wisconsin Building Corporation had not actually objected to an audit but that it had raised the question of his

Arthur E. Wegner of Madison, secretary of the state building commission, reviewed the historical development of the building corporation device, and asked the new state executive to approve a direct appropriation of state tax funds for building during the next two years of about $15 million.

The figure compares with about $6.5 million approved by the Republican legislature during the administration of Gov. Thomson which in turn was about one-half of what the building commission had asked two years ago.

Democrats have charged that the Republicans, two years ago, sacrificed a normal appreciation reserve for state institution construction in order to balance their budget and to disguise their fiscal problems.

The size of the requests filed by the departments, whose officers will testify in defense of them in hearings to last for several weeks, led capital observers to doubt that the new state administration can balance its accounts without new revenues.

Nelson has repeatedly said that if new tax revenue is required, he will rely upon an increase in the individual income surtax to provide it.

Guinea, Ghana Agree on Unity Jacques Bergerac Debbie's Escort At Gala Ball

Hollywood — (U—) Just "charming company" is Debbie Reynolds' description of actor Jacques Bergerac, with whom she sat, gaily chatted, and danced at a gala ball.

When she left, Bergerac left with her—and the couple with whom Debbie, estranged wife of Eddie Fisher, attended the Saturday night event. Debbie hasn't had a date since she and Fisher separated in September. But a close friend said Bergerac, handsome ex-male of Ginger Rogers, wasn't Debbie's date—and that it was "purely by accident" that he sat next to her at a ball honoring Queen Frederika of Greece.

spokesman, "we have no idea what Dr. Nkrumah has in mind."

The French foreign office declined comment. The Paris government has been negotiating with Toure on future relations between France and Guinea.

Ghana, the former Gold Coast, and Guinea are located on the southern side of the West African bulge but are some 350 miles apart at their nearest point. The Ivory Coast, still a French colony, separates them.

Ghana has an area of 91,843 square miles and a population of more than four million, less than 7,000 of them Europeans. It exported nearly $143 million worth of cocoa and more than $62 million worth of gold, manganese and diamonds in 1956, the last year for which trade figures are available.

Guinea is about 105,200 square miles in size and has about 2,500,000 people, nearly 100,000 of them Europeans. Its chief export has been bananas and it has been largely dependent on French aid, which ended with independence. Toure hopes to attract foreign capital to develop rich deposits of iron ore and bauxite.

Prisoner Tells Escape in Note
 Macclenny, Fla. — Sheriff Ed Yarborough discovered that one of his prisoners was missing from county jail. But he left a note saying: "I am sorry I had to leave. I promise you faithfully I will return in about three weeks. I have gone to get some money so I can bail out."
 The prisoner, Robert H. Landsdown, 32, of Jacksonville was arrested in August with burglary tools in his possession. Landsdown sawed through two bars and let himself out a window to the ground by a blanket. The sheriff said the prisoner must have dropped a string from the window and someone tied a saw blade to it.

Ike Reduces Forces, Reds Harden Line

Military Manpower Being Cut By 70,000 to About 2,525,000

BY WILLIAM S. WHITE
Washington — The Eisenhower administration is again in the face of the armed forces in the Far East. Communist subversion is, quite frankly, doing all too well in many places, and we know it. The Russians, at the same time, are seen as having all but abandoned their long clamor to force us into a so-called nuclear disarmament pact that would leave the essential power balance tipped on their side. Why they have done so is another in a long list of sinister enigmas.

Is it because they suspect we will adopt proposals such as that of Sen. Albert Gore (D., Tenn.) to stop all our bomb tests in the immediate upper air but go on with vital, underground and outer space experiments?

Brutal Candor
Or is it simply that the Russians are taking up a brutal candor and implicitly admitting they are now turning on the heat valve and shutting off the charm valve?

None of this do we know. We know only that on the most hopeful possible estimate we are entering a period of vast anger for the next two or three years.

All these circumstances will suggest why the truly adult politicians in both parties in this country will not be irresponsible enough to try to tear the Eisenhower administration to shreds in its coming last two years. They all know how scary is the score. And they all know that nobody alive—no congress, no party—can direct the president's operation of the Pentagon. There is only one commander-in-chief; and it is he.

They all desperately hope he is right about military manpower. Many desperate fear he may be wrong. But there is nothing whatever they can usefully do about it. All can only earnestly wish for the president, in this matter, the best possible success in this autumn of his public life.

Bake Holiday Bird in Airtight Foil Jacket

True to tradition, a tender, well-browned turkey will reign at the Thanksgiving feast in homes all over the country.

The bird can look like a cook's dream if it's tucked snugly in an airtight jacket of aluminum foil before it goes into the oven, then uncovered to brown shortly before it is removed.

Nothing is more tempting to a family and guests than the sight of the golden-brown turkey, piping hot, resting on a platter waiting to be carved. Just as there is a right way to cook a fowl, there is a right way to carve and serve it. Tasty cranberry orange relish in bright foil dishes makes the bird even more festive looking.

Here are recommendations for cooking, carving and serving the Thanksgiving turkey, as well as how to make the relish dishes.

Roasting Instructions
Pre-heat oven to 425 degrees. Grease skin of bird with soft butter, sprinkle with salt, pepper.

A garnish of cranberry relish in foil cups presents a pretty picture for the Thanksgiving platter.

Wash oranges; cut in eighths; remove seeds.
Put oranges (including rind), cranberries through coarse blade of food chopper. Stir in sugar; blend thoroughly. Chill.

Tear off 12 6 - inch wide pieces of 12-inch aluminum foil. Fold each piece in half, making 6 - inch squares. Fit squares into muffin cups; fold excess foil down to form edge.

Fill foil cups with Cranberry Orange Relish (approximately 1 cup); put remaining relish into another container; freeze for later use. Place muffin pans in freezer for several hours or until frozen.

Remove foil cups from muffin pans; wrap cups completely in foil and store in freezer until ready to use.

Recipe for Poppy Seed Rolls From Faraway Holland

From Amsterdam, Holland, comes this recipe for rolls filled with poppy seeds. In Dutch, the rolls are called Luxe Broodjes.

Poppy Seed Rolls
3 packages active dry yeast
1 cup warm water (115 degrees)
1 1/2 cup milk, scalded
1/2 cup butter
7 cups sifted flour
2 1/2 teaspoons salt
Cold water
Poppy seeds

Soften yeast in warm water. Combine milk and butter. Cool to lukewarm and add to yeast. Mix well.

Gradually stir in flour mixed with salt. Turn out onto a lightly floured board and knead five minutes or until smooth and elastic. Shape into a ball and put into lightly greased bowl. Cover and let rise in a warm place (80 to 85 degrees) until double in size.

Punch down dough and shape into a ball. Place on pastry board, cover and let rest 10 minutes.

Pinch off pieces of dough about the size of a golf ball. Shape into rolls about three inches long and pointed at the ends.

Place on lightly greased cookie sheets. Brush rolls with cold water and sprinkle generously with poppy seeds. Let rise in warm place 20 minutes.

Bake in moderately hot oven, 400 degrees, 15 minutes or until brown. Yield 3 dozen rolls.

stuffed turkey; if they are baked unstuffed, subtract three to five minutes per pound.

When the turkey is taken from the oven, it should be permitted to "set" for a few minutes before it is carved. The platter on which the fowl is to be served should be warmed so that the bird will remain hot throughout carving and serving.

When carving is done at the table, the platter containing the turkey is set directly in front of the carver, forward of his place setting. His water glass and salad plate, and other tableware which may be in his way, can be moved aside.

Warmed dinner plates are stacked in front of him. Whether he stands or sits to do his job is as a matter of choice. All meats and fowls should be carved across the grain, with a sharp knife.

Carving Pointers
Here are some carving pointers:

Place bird on platter with legs to carver's right. Remove string and skewers.

Starting on side toward carver, place carving knife between thigh and body; cut through skin to joint.

Separate leg from body by pressing leg outward with knife and bending it back with the carving fork inserted. Tines points down, into drumstick. Lift to extra warmed platter, placed at left of dinner plates.

Separate thigh from drumstick, just above round bone; slice off dark meat for service. Disjoint wing and separate from body in same manner as leg.

Insert fork through ribs above backbone. Make a cut above wing joint through to body frame.

SHRED body frame. Using either carving knife or sheer, slice breast downward with straight even strokes beginning halfway up the breast. When knife reaches incision above wing bone, slices will fall free.

Continue slicing breast by beginning at a higher point each time until crest of bone is reached.

The platter is turned and the same procedure followed for other side.

square of heavy-duty aluminum foil or double - thick household weight wrap. If sheet is too narrow, fold two together lengthwise, using double fold.

Bring edges together above turkey; close with double fold, pressing firmly against bird. Fold ends over and over, pressing close to turkey.

Place wrapped turkey on rack in shallow pan.

If meat thermometer is used, insert it through aluminum foil.

Forty-five minutes before turkey is done, open foil; push away for browning.

Time-Temperature
It takes approximately 20 to 25 minutes per pound to roast an 8 to 10 pound bird; 25 to 30 minutes per pound for a 12 to 15-pounder and 30 to 35 minutes per pound for the turkey in the 16 to 18 pound range. This is for the

For Judy Stearman, 3, a dream has come true. She has met Lassie of movie and TV fame. Judy, a victim of incurable kidney cancer since birth, is the daughter of Attorney and Mrs. Stanley Stearman, Washington, D. C. The parents brought the tot to Hollywood to fulfill Judy's dearest wish; although producers of the Lassie show keep youngsters off the set because of possible noises, they made an exception in Judy's case.

Gene Barry Explains Why He Left Movies for TV Series

BY BOB THOMAS
AP Motion Picture Editor

Hollywood—Why does a fellow give up a promising career in movies to cast his lot with the TV gunslungers? Gene Barry gives a perfectly logical explanation, and it's not just money alone.

The lad plays a gunslinger and cane-carrier as Bat Masterson on the Wednesday night NBC series. Last year he did three films at highly respectable salaries, and not many young actors can make that statement. So why did he choose TV?

Chances Few

"Because the movie industry is controlled by the bankers today," he explained. "They want insurance when they invest in a picture, and that means the established stars. So you see the same faces doing all the big pictures, and the newcomer does not have a chance."

"I had my best year last year, but I still couldn't get the top-notch class of picture. So I decided to try a TV series. Perhaps the exposure I am getting will convince the bankers to take a chance on me in big movies."

"If things go as they have been, I think it might happen. I've had more publicity and recognition in the three weeks that the show has been on the air than I have in the seven years I was in pictures."

Money a Factor

Gene admitted money was a convincing factor in signing with Ziv.

"Richard Carlson and I have the same agent, so I know what kind of money he has made on 'I Live Three Lives,'" the actor said. "At the time I was considering the Bat Masterson series, Dick had received over $600,000 in residuals alone. My deal is even better than his. I have merchandising rights, the opportunity to do rodeos, outside pictures and even TV appearances on other networks."

Of course, his visions of gold are predicated on the show's success. It seems to be taking off nicely. Coupled with Milton Berle, the show has done nicely in the ratings and has even exceeded Uncle Miltie in some areas.

Movies Need New Stars, Says Producer

Jerry Wald Says It Takes $100,000 To Groom Newcomer

BY HAL BOYLE

New York—What Hollywood needs, says producer Jerry Wald, is a reforestation plan to grow new stars. "The independent producers are chopping down the trees," he remarked, "but they aren't doing any planting."

"They are gypsies. They grab a big buck and move on. Of course, I can't say I blame them," thoughtfully added the producer, who has had a lifetime admiration for a well-turned dollar. "But someone has to do the planting."

Project Underway

Wald, now under a 5-year, 18-picture deal with 20th Century-Fox, feels that studio's star reforestation project is beginning to pay off.

"In another two years it should be self-sufficient. We'll have a good stock of young, well-groomed actors. We have about 50 players under contract—and it takes nerve in the industry today to have a regular payroll."

"These seedlings need all kinds of help—from special training to wardrobes," said Wald. "It costs a minimum of $100,000 for each personality you sign, whether eventually you keep him or let him go."

Although not exactly an enemy of the star system, the producer feels the presence of stars is no sure guarantee of success for a picture. To him the most important thing is still the story.

Joe E. Brown Back in Films As Laughmaker

First Movie Since '51, Comedian Plays In 'Some Like It Hot'

BY BOB THOMAS
AP Motion Picture Writer

Hollywood—After a lengthy absence, Joe E. Brown is finally back at the thing he does best—making people laugh in movies.

Joe is playing the wacky role of a roaring twenties multi-millionaire in "Some Like It Hot." He has one Joe E. Brown scene in which he does a tango with Jack Lemmon, masquerading as a girl, and the set-dancers say it's a riot.

His last picture was the "Show Boat" remake (1951) in which he played a serious role. (You can't count his brief appearance in "Around the World in 80 Days.")

Losing Knack

The entertainment field is losing the knack for slapstick, Brown lamented, adding that what few attempts are made are misdirected.

"They don't lay the groundwork for slapstick, and that's a mistake," he remarked. "When I was making pictures at Warners, we would spend the first four reels setting up the character and winning sympathy for him. Then you could do anything you wanted with him."

Joe does not deprecate the current state of comedy talent. There are lots of bright new comics, he said. The trouble is that most of them are coming from night clubs, and they rely largely on spoken comedy instead of old-fashioned action, the basis for slapstick.

Busy Years

Though he has done few films in recent years, Joe has been far from inactive. He has broadcast baseball commentary in New York. He has toured for five years in "Harvey" through the U.S., England and Australia. He has played summer stock, been a TV quizmaster, done TV commercials and guest shots, made lecture tours.

And he has given unstinting of his time for a variety of causes, from pony league baseball to entertaining servicemen.

"I don't suppose a day goes past when I don't get a request to appear for some cause somewhere in the world," he said. "I do as many of them as I can. I still like to make people laugh. There's no lovelier music in the world."

Bing Crosby Sells Ranching Business

Elko, Nev. — Bing Crosby has pulled out of the Nevada ranching business. Bing sold his 19,000-acre ranch north of here, its 3,700 head of cattle and all equipment for a price exceeding $1 million dollars, it was announced yesterday.

The buyers are California ranchers and businessmen Edward Johnson, Earl Presnell and William Johnson. Crosby takes over two of Presnell's small ranches near Modesto, but expects to sell them.

The singer's spread has two air strips, two headquarters buildings, three working corals, its own power plant and year-round water from five mountain streams.

Suit by Friedhofer Settled Out of Court

Los Angeles — A $400,000 invasion of privacy suit against singer Dennis Day and the National Broadcasting company has been settled out of court.

Composer Hugo Friedhofer charged that Day played the role of Friedhofer in a 1954 television skit that depicted the Hollywood composer in a derisive and derogatory manner. Settlement terms were not disclosed.

and had offered her a ride. The couple stopped at several places for beer and Dillman said he purchased a case of beer.

He said he had had about 12 to 14 beers during the evening. The couple left Beck's tavern in Omro around midnight and, Dillman said, they parked on the road off Highway 21 in the town of Omro where Miss Schmidt's body was found Oct. 28.

Dillman said they talked for awhile and Miss Schmidt resisted his advances. She got out of the car and began calling him names, which made him angry, he declared.

He said he took the tire tool from under the front seat and struck her "quite a few times." She backed away from him and, when the lights of an approaching car shone down the road, he shoved her, tossed the tire tool away and got in the car and drove off.

Called to Her
Later, he said, he turned around and came back and called to Miss Schmidt several times but received no answer. Thinking she may have left the scene, he drove back to Oshkosh and went to the Morgan company dock where he lay down for about 14 hours. He said he was quite sick.

This was where Oshkosh police officers later found the girl's sweater. Dillman changed previous statements in which he denied knowledge of the whereabouts of her sweater, purse and shoes.

Dillman left Oshkosh that Saturday evening for Fond du day to 10 a.m. Wednesday and at the church after 11 a.m. Wednesday.

Survivors are five daughters, Miss Dorothy Sorenson, St. Paul, Minn., Mrs. Harry Christensen, Mrs. Carl Woizeski and Mrs. Edward Smith, all of Larsen, and Mrs. William Krings, Winneconne; two sons, Ralph, Bear Creek, and Howard, route 1, Winneconne; one sister, Mrs. J. R. Jones, Bemidji, Minn.; and 17 grandchildren.

Twin City Deaths

Donna Mae Decker

Winneconne — Donna Mae Decker, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Decker, Butte des Morts, died at 5:30 this morning at Oshkosh after a week's illness. She was born Oct. 4, 1944 at Omro and was an eighth grade student at the Winneconne Central school.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Wednesday at the Mueller Funeral home with the Rev. Kenneth Craig pastor of the Winneconne Baptist church, in charge. Burial will be in Lakeview Memorial cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home Tuesday afternoon and evening.

Mrs. Louis Sorenson

Winchester — Mrs. Louis Sorenson, 71, route 1, Larsen, died at 11:35 p.m. Saturday after a year's illness. She was born July 7, 1887, in the town of Menasha and had resided in the town of Winchester the last 50 years.

Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Wednesday at Grace Lutheran church with the Rev. Richard Rem in charge. Burial will be in the parish cemetery. Friends may call at the Westgor Funeral home in Neenah from 2 p.m. Tues-

Lac, where he boarded a train early Sunday morning, Aug. 17. He went to Iowa where he worked several weeks, enlisting in the army about Sept. 15.

He was AWOL from Fort Carson, Colo., when he was arrested near Ogalalla, Neb., by state police while hitchhiking with a companion. He was using a fictitious name while in military service.

A tattoo on his arm led police to be suspicious and they made a routine check with Oshkosh police after Dillman gave them his real name and home town.

Cause of Death
He claimed he did not know Miss Schmidt was dead until an army buddy, who had been on leave in Wisconsin, mentioned he had read about finding the girl's body.

The state crime laboratory report stated "death can be attributed to extensive injury to the face, the force of which was transmitted to the brain, causing severe fatal hemorrhage at the base of the skull."

Dillman had been scheduled to appear Wednesday morning to plead to the charge. A paternity charge against him, which involves a 20-year-old Menasha girl, has been dropped at the girl's request.

It was this charge that was used to return Dillman from Nebraska.

Blue Inn Dance

No Inquest Planned in Town of Utica Crash

Theodore Zentgraf Is County's 16th Traffic Fatality

Oshkosh — No inquest is planned into the death of Theodore Zentgraf, 53, route 3, Oshkosh, who was killed in a 2-car mishap on County Trunk X in the town of Utica at 10:05 Saturday morning.

The fatality was the second of the weekend and the 16th in Winnebago county since the first of the year.

Zentgraf was the driver of a station wagon which collided with a car driven by Ed

Krentz, 19, Ripon. Krentz and Miss Sharon Mendleski, 18, Berlin, were injured although not seriously.

The accident occurred at the intersection of County Trunk X and a town road about four miles west of Highway 44. Zentgraf's vehicle was driven on the town road and Krentz was traveling on Trunk X.

Both vehicles landed in a field and the motor and generator were torn from the station wagon and were lying on the road. A utility pole was snapped off. Both occupants of the Krentz vehicle were thrown out of the car.

The Diamond Jubilee of the St. Mary Catholic church building was celebrated Sunday with a solemn high mass, open house and banquet. Attending the banquet were Auxiliary Bishop John B. Grellinger, Green Bay; David Voss, contractor representative for the recent church remodeling; Eugene Pontente, decorator; George Naroves, architect; the Rev. Joseph Becker, pastor; and Milton Rueckl, left to right in the upper picture. The Rev. Stanislaus V. Bona, bishop of Green Bay, is shown in the lower picture marching in a procession before the solemn high mass.

List Hints To Assist Homemaker

Neenah — A good freezer wrap should keep air from reaching the food and keep moisture from leaving it. It should be pliable enough to make a close-fitting covering with no air pockets and should be strong enough even when wet. Only cellophane labeled for "freezing foods" is moisture-vapor proof.

Equal parts of seasoned flour and grated Parmesan cheese make a fine coating for thin slices of veal that are to be pan-fried.

Heating rolls? Drop them into a brown paper bag, twist the opening closed and place in a hot oven, about 425 degrees, for 10 minutes or so.

Your cookies will have a good chance of browning evenly if you bake them on a sheet; this applies to drop, rolled and refrigerator cookies. Bar-type cookies usually have to be baked in cake pans with sides.

Check your range to make sure it is standing on level floor if you want the best distribution of heat.

Some homemakers like to wax painted window sills and Venetian blinds because they say the waxing makes dusting easy.

To glaze the top of yeast loaf before baking, beat an egg white slightly and brush it over the loaf.

Don't let those good juices escape from that broiled steak. Use tongs to turn it.

List Hints To Assist Homemaker

Neenah — A good freezer wrap should keep air from reaching the food and keep moisture from leaving it. It should be pliable enough to make a close-fitting covering with no air pockets and should be strong enough even when wet. Only cellophane labeled for "freezing foods" is moisture-vapor proof.

Equal parts of seasoned flour and grated Parmesan cheese make a fine coating for thin slices of veal that are to be pan-fried.

Heating rolls? Drop them into a brown paper bag, twist the opening closed and place in a hot oven, about 425 degrees, for 10 minutes or so.

Your cookies will have a good chance of browning evenly if you bake them on a sheet; this applies to drop, rolled and refrigerator cookies. Bar-type cookies usually have to be baked in cake pans with sides.

Check your range to make sure it is standing on level floor if you want the best distribution of heat.

Some homemakers like to wax painted window sills and Venetian blinds because they say the waxing makes dusting easy.

To glaze the top of yeast loaf before baking, beat an egg white slightly and brush it over the loaf.

Don't let those good juices escape from that broiled steak. Use tongs to turn it.

Rockets Net 70-58 Win Over Raiders

Neenah Scores 26 Points in Final Frame; Gets 25 in 2nd; Kuehl Leads With 21 Markers

Wisconsin Rapids — A blistering 26-point fourth period explosion sent Neenah to a 70-58 win over Wisconsin Rapids here Saturday night. The victory squared the Rockets' record at 1-1.

The score was deadlocked at 44-44 at the end of the third period and it was close for the first few minutes of the final frame.

But then the Rockets really exploded. In the next few minutes, at 59-48, they collected 18 points while limiting the Raiders to a single free throw. The lead went up to 19 points at 62-49.

Both coaches sent in substitutes and Rapids scored nine straight points to slim the difference to 63-58. Jerry Hensen made the last two points of the game for the final 70-58 score.

Pace Attack

Big guns for the visitors in the violent last quarter were Bob Tollefson and Jon Halverson with eight and six points respectively.

Neenah, after trailing 10-2 at the close of the first period, did almost as well in the second frame as it did in the fourth. The Rockets came up with 25 points, including six baskets in seven tries by Bill Kuehl to emerge with a 33-27 halftime advantage. Kuehl also had three free throws.

The lead changed hands several times in the third period but by the time it was over Rapids had made up the 6-point deficit it had at halftime, making the score 44-41.

Brenner Scores 17

Kuehl took Neenah scoring honors for the second straight night, coming up with 21 points on eight baskets and five free throws.

Halverson tallied 17 on five buckets and seven points from the charity stripe. Dick Wilson and Bob Tollefson each had 10.

Bill Brenner, Rapids' only returning letterman, topped the Raiders with 17 points. He fouled out with the Rockets in front 62-49 and Bill Metzger was whistled out with the score 56-48.

Three other Rapids players had four fouls. Neenah didn't lose anyone on violations but Jack Anderson, Tollefson and Kuehl all had four.

Unofficially, the Rockets shot 46 per cent on 24 baskets in 52 tries. The losers made 19 in 68 attempts for a 28 per cent mark. From the free throw line it was Rapids with a sharp 20 for 28 and Neenah 22 for 36.

Shamrocks Unamused

Harlem Magicians Win, Receive Laughs From Everyone but Foes

BY HERB VAN DRIEL
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Menasha — "I've never seen such crazy going-ons!"

With this statement a spectator perfectly described the basketball exhibition game between the Harlem Magicians and Boston Shamrocks at the Menasha High school gymnasium Saturday night.

Mixing a little straight basketball with a great deal of comedy, the Magicians romped to a 63-53 win over the Shamrocks before a crowd of about 1,200 people.

The contest was different from other basketball games as no one seemed to care who won. The crazy antics of Magicians owner Marques Haynes, known as the world's greatest dribbler, kept the audience in stitches and their minds away from the score.

Tickets, Opponents

Haynes drew chuckles from the crowd by tucking and shaking hands with opponents putting a hex on Shamrock free throw shooters, shooting at side baskets and mimicking the umpire and calling him a cheater.

This dribbling prowess also drew applause as did his ability to score baskets from behind his back, knocking the ball in with his head on tip-ins and bouncing the ball through the hoop.

Haynes' mates Tom Gipson, Mack Doss, Paul Martin, Josh Grider and Eugene Johnson also were pretty fair country boys. They kept the officials harassed by hiding the ball under their shirts, untangling shoelaces and playing "keep the ball away from the referee."

The Magicians, dressed in flashy orange pants, shirts and stockings with black stripes, also drew laughs by sneaking lopsided and other kinds of goofy basketballs into the game and stopping the game to play a little baseball and football.

The only persons who didn't seem to be amused were the Shamrocks. While the Magicians clowned, the Shamrocks New Holstein, 87-68, and a plowed along, unsmiling, and fifth and sixth grade team trying to win a basketball game.

Bob Erickson, Menasha, led 20-8, in preliminary games.

The former Marquette university cager dropped in 10 baskets and eight free throws as the Macs copped their second straight league victory. The Menashans have an overall record of six wins, one loss.

The winners were outscored in only the third quarter when New Holstein plunked in 21 markers to 19 for the Macs. Menasha held a slim 26-24 edge at the quarter but increased the margin to 43-32 at halftime.

Margin Narrowed

New Holstein narrowed the margin to 62-53 after three quarters but the Macs, led by O'Keefe's 10 scores, drove in 25 points in the final frame to the loser's 15.

O'Keefe garnered 19 of his 28 points in the final two periods. Joe Kosiorek and Dick Rohe shared scoring honors in the first quarter with six points apiece while Bob Kersten's six points were high for the Macs in the second period.

Menasha — St. Mary opens defense of its half of the Fox Valley Catholic conference Diocesan freshman tournament last winter. Coach Ralph McClone has had a week to iron out some of the mistakes the Menashians made in their two and four-point losses at Milwaukee school gym.

The Zephyrs were edged by Don Bosco and Notre Dame, two of the powers in the Milwaukee Catholic conference a week ago, while St. Norbert edged Sturgeon Bay 65-64 last Tuesday in its only outing.

Pat Wright, opening his second season as Squire mentor, has less height than a year ago but the equal is more mobile and it has added some sharpshooters.

Jays, Rockets, Zephyrs Open League Slaes

All 3 Twin City Quints Also Have Non-Loop Tangles

Menasha — The opening of conference seasons headlines this week's basketball action for Twin City high school squads.

St. Mary begins defense of its half of the Fox Valley Catholic conference title here Tuesday night against St. Norbert while Neenah and Menasha open their Mid-Eastern conference slates Friday evening.

The Rockets entertain defending champion Shawano and the Bluejays travel to Two Rivers in their league inaugurals.

Before swinging into league action, both clubs have non-conference affairs Wednesday night. Neenah launches its home schedule against Ripon and the Jays play at Appleton.

St. Mary also has a pair of games carded this week with the second a big attraction at the Menasha High school gym Saturday night. The opponent will be Milwaukee North division, which last year reached the finals of the state WIAA tournament at Madison.

The junior varsity teams will be in action before the main contests. In freshman play Menasha entertains Wilkes at the high school gym Wednesday afternoon to begin its schedule. Neenah draws a bye the first week and will not kick off its slate until Dec. 4.

Are You Still Hunting For That Elusive . . . TURKEY?

Irv and Ray slipped out the other day and came back with some of the best looking birds you have ever seen! While everyone else was out hunting deer, these boys went turkey hunting, and let me tell you they really came back with some tender, juicy, mouth watering turkeys. On their way back they stopped and had them government graded and inspected, to assure their customers that they will be getting the best that money can buy! Not only did they manage to get turkeys, but they also came upon several flocks of ducks, turkey-ducks, capons, geese and roasting chickens. So why not give the boys a call today, and let them put one aside for you. You won't be dissapointed!

For another taste tempting treat why not order a delicious smoked ham or some home smoked bacon, it's really the greatest taste sensation, you will ever find!

Over-The-Counter Stock Not as Well Known as Listed Issues

BY WILLIAM A. DOYLE

Q. I have been investing in long-term growth stocks. I have purchased nothing but stocks listed on the major exchanges and feel that I have done very well.

Now I would like to make some long-term investments in good quality growth stocks that are traded in the over-the-counter market. But it is much more difficult to find out about stocks that aren't listed on an exchange.

My broker isn't much help. When I ask him about an over-the-counter stock, all he does is mail me a statement on the company that may be as much as a year old.

How can I get detailed, up-to-date information on over-the-counter stocks?

A. If more people used good common sense, as you do, and investigated before they purchased, there would be fewer unhappy stockholders. You have the right approach to investing.

Yes, it can be more difficult to find out about cult, sometimes, to get information about over-the-counter stocks. The main reason is that the average over-the-counter stock is not as well-known as the average listed stock.

When you get interested in any stock, about the first thing you should do is get hold of the company's latest annual report and any recent semi-annual or quarterly reports. Any company whose stock is held by the public should be happy to send them to you.

Then ask your broker to send you a stock bulletin on the issue you are considering.

These bulletins are published by statistical services and are updated quite often. They give a great deal of background on each stock and, usually, a forecast on the issue's future.

And, by all means, go to your broker's office and look up the stock in one of the big statistical reference volumes. Those books contain just about all the facts and figures you will ever want to know about almost any stock.

All this will involve some time and effort on your part. But it should be worth it.

Claim Loss

Q. In 1929 I bought 40 shares of a certain stock at a total cost of $6,000. The stock's value fell to almost nothing. In 1932 the company whose stock I held was merged with another corporation. There was an exchange of stock. I turned in my 40 shares and received 15 shares of a stock that was selling at that time for $3 a share.

Since 1932 that stock rose in value and was split four for one. So, I now have 60 shares. This stock is now selling around $7 a share. My 60 shares, therefore, are worth a total of about $420.

If I sell these 60 shares now, can I claim a tax loss for this year? My own broker says I can. But some other brokers I know say I should have claimed the loss for 1932, when I exchanged the stock.

A. Pay attention to your own broker. He knows what he's talking about. If you sell the 60 shares you now hold, you will establish a loss this year. Just follow the normal capital loss procedure in your income tax return.

2 Families of Crash Victims to Collect Total of $320,000

Los Angeles—A—Two families of victims in the 1956 Grand Canyon air collision get a total of $320,000 damages. The jury verdicts were against Trans World Airlines, Inc., and United Air Lines, Inc., whose planes collided with a loss of 128 lives. The trial was the first growing out of the crash.

Three children of Mr. and Mrs. William Wallace Hatcher were awarded $200,000 for the loss of their father and $20,000 for the loss of their mother. They had sued for $14 million. Mrs. Nadine Nasalroad and her two sons, who had asked $500,000 in the death of her husband, Andrew Jackson Nasalroad, were given $100,000.

KHS Five to Seek 1st Win At Green Bay

Non-League Game to Be Final Before Loop Action Opens

Kaukauna — The Kaukauna High school cage squad will hit the road for the first time this season and wind up its non-league action prior to the start of mid-east play when it travels to Green Bay East Tuesday night.

Kaukauna has dropped its first two starts, losing 65 to 57 to a good team du Lac squad and then being topped by Wausau, co-champs of the Big Rivers conference, 63 to 62 in an overtime tilt.

Green Bay meanwhile has one mid-east scalp to its credit as the Red Devils defeated Clintonville 61 to 45 Friday. The home school will have a big height advantage on Kaukauna but the Ghosts are getting used to playing taller teams and Myron Zachowski and Lee Weyenberg have developed into good rebounders with good spring in their legs.

Rough Schedule

Coach Gerry Hopfensperger has arranged a tough pre-league schedule hoping his against rougher competition. The Ghosts have been strong in both outings and forced their opponents to go all out before taking the wins.

Hopfensperger has relied heavily on juniors in his first two games, the three seniors on the squad used only in reserve action. Kaukauna will meet Green Bay in a return game later this year for its final non league contest. The Jayvees will meet in a preliminary tilt.

Christmas Party Plans Completed By Legion Women

Kaukauna — Plans for the Dec. 11 Christmas party were completed at a meeting of the American Legion auxiliary Thursday.

The Legion hall will be closed for the winter this year thus the party has been scheduled for 6:30 p.m. at the Ritz club. Women planning to attend must make reservations with Mrs. Art Kromer, Jr., by Dec. 8.

Card winners at the session included Mrs. Otto Wendland, Mrs. Robert Promer and Mrs. William Koch. Members of the serving committee were Mrs. Alfred Marzahl, Mrs. William Marzahl and Mrs. James Agon.

Lions to View Alaskan Slides

Kaukauna — Miss Alma Renn and Mrs. Lorraine Dudley will show colored slides and give a commentary about Alaska at a meeting of the Kaukauna Lions club at 6:45 p.m. Tuesday in the Elks clubrooms.

The two women toured Alaska this summer and took pictures of various points of interest in that country. Gene LaBorde and Orr Glandt will be co-chairmen of the program committee.

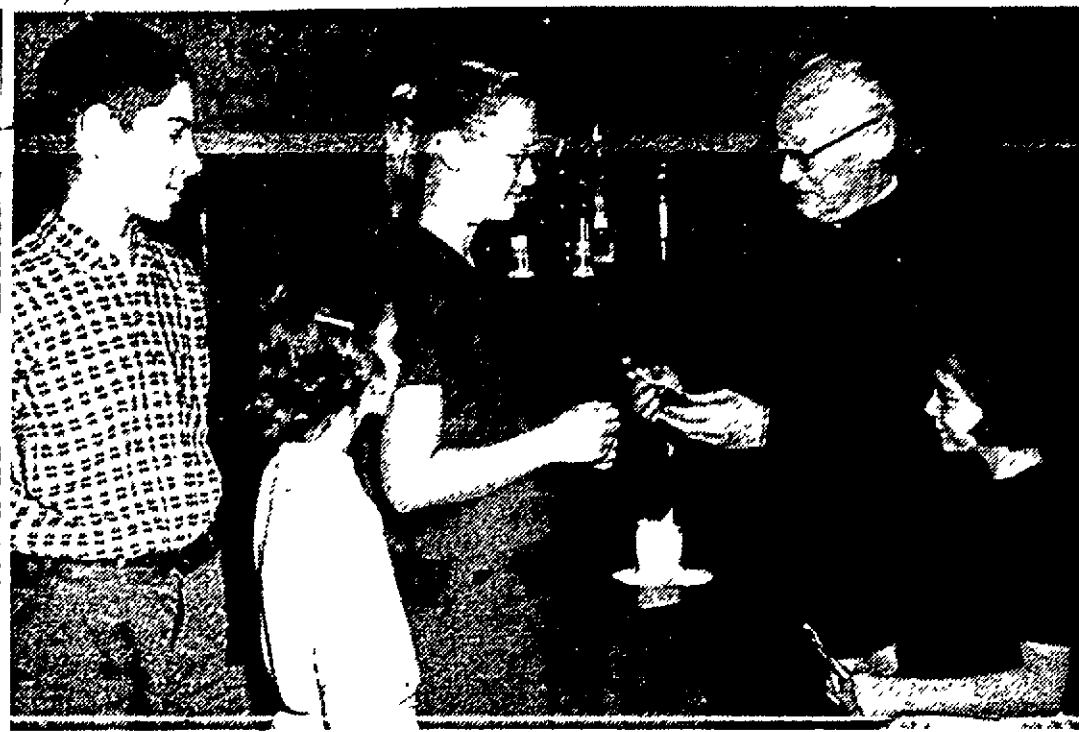

Discussion Club Will Meet Tuesday Evening

Little Chute — The first meeting of the St. John parish Discussion club will be held after church services Tuesday evening in the grade school social room.

Text to be used for this year's discussion is a new catechism titled "Life in Christ." All men and women of the parish are invited to attend.

p. m. tonight at McCabe's restaurant

Plans will be made for the annual Christmas party, March of Dimes projects and the annual installation of officers in January.

Awards to the Top Spellers at Holy Name grade school, Kimberly, were presented by the pastor, the Rev. Joseph Kools to, left to right, Tim Van Himbergen and Antoinette Van Hout, runnersup; and Irene Ruys and Lois Vanevenhoven, winners. Top spellers from each class participated in the contest.

Kaukauna — After leading for about 30 minutes of the game, the Kaukauna High school cagers faltered in the fourth period, enabling Wausau to score a 63-62 overtime win in a non-loop game at Kaukauna Saturday night.

Jay Whiting proved the hero of the game for the winners. He scored the basket which tied the count at 57-all as the horn sounded ending the game and sent it into overtime. He finished as top scorer with 24 points, getting eight in the final period and two in the overtime session.

Both teams started slowly, controlling their own backboard but unable to hit consistently. The score stood at 6-6 midway through the first quarter but Kaukauna spurred in the final four minutes to take a 15-12 lead at the end of the frame.

Ghosts Move

The Ghosts assumed command in the second period as they rolled in 23 points to 16 for the winners to hold a comfortable 38 to 28 halftime lead. Myron Zachowski, a demon off the backboards most of the evening, Lee Weyenberg and Ron Busse led Kaukauna through most of the frame as Zachowski and Weyenberg were hitting from close in while Busse kept the Wausau defense loose by dropping long shots from beyond the free throw circle.

Wausau came back strong in the third quarter to outscore Kaukauna 11 to 7 but Kaukauna maintained the lead. Busse hit two baskets, Gary Vanevenhoven one and Weyenberg hit a free throw for the only points in the period for Kaukauna. The Ghosts scored four quick points in the fourth period while limiting Wausau to one to take a 49 to 40 advantage with about six minutes remaining.

Winners Take Lead

Whiting and Manceur Cyr, then teamed up to score 10 straight points for the winners as Wausau moved into a 50 to 49 lead with four minutes remaining. It was the first time since three minutes of the first period that Wausau was in the lead. The lead then changed hands for the balance of the period with Kaukauna leading 57 to 55 with about six seconds remaining.

A jump ball situation resulted in Wausau getting the ball. Whiting dribbled once and let fly with a jump shot from the

Wausau JVs Defeat Ghosts

Fourth Quarter Rally Fails as Score Ends 50-48

Kaukauna — Kaukauna basketball fans were treated to a double thriller Saturday night as Wausau won the varsity game in overtime and the Junior Ghosts 50 to 48 in a preliminary.

Gary Kirk dropped the winning basket with less than five seconds remaining. The Junior Ghosts fought from behind in the final period to overtake the winners but were unable to do any better than tie the score.

Kaukauna trailed 12 to 9 at the end of the first period and at halftime the score stood at 25-19 in favor of the winners. Wausau continued to dominate play in the third frame and held a 41 to 34 three-quarter lead.

The losers picked up steam in the fourth period and slowly moved closer to the leaders, finally tying the count at 48-all with about 30 seconds remaining. The winners were not to be denied as they moved deliberately up the floor and set the stage for the winning bucket.

Richard LaCerte paced the winners with 26 points while Ken Kavanaugh was high for the losers with 18, 10 of which were scored in the final frame.

Ed Hammen Scores 19 Points to Lead St. John Victory

BY JIM HARP
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Little Chute — Taking advantage of a hot second quarter, St. John High school pulled away from a scrappy St. Benedict of Milwaukee team and went on to score a 60 to 48 victory here Sunday afternoon.

The win was the second in as many games for the Dutchmen who defeated Freedom 60 to 36 Friday night. St. John will continue its fast pace of opening games by playing at Wayland Academy, Beaver Dam, Tuesday night.

The Chuters bagged 20 points in the second period while limiting the all-Negro Milwaukee team to just five buckets.

St. Benedict's started fast as Bill Jenkins hit on a short one and John Orr dropped a layup to give the visitors a 4 to 0 lead. Tom Geerts connected on a jump shot for the Chuters but Orr made the count 6 to 2 with a one hander.

Geerts made good on a free throw to make it 6 to 3 and Glen Wilder sunk a 10 foot jump to push the St. Benedict lead to 8 to 3.

Don Hermesen added a point to throw the Dutchmen with 21 to 12 by the end of the third quarter. In the final stanza the Chuters scored 13 8 all with 2 30 left in the while holding the visitors to nine.

Vic Ebben set the scoring pace for the Dutchmen with six field goals and one free throw for 13 points. Harland Hietpas had runnerup honors with seven.

'Defeated, but Not Conquered,' GOP Chairman Says

Jasper Promises More Vigorous Rebuilding of Republican Party

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Madison — The Republican party of Wisconsin has been "defeated but not conquered," its chairman said here today.

Claude J. Jasper, Madison lawyer and party veteran, rose to command of the organization a year ago, only to see his party suffer the worst defeat in the November elections in 20 years. He indicated some of his plans for the reconstruction of the Republican machine in preparation for another battle with the Democrats in 1960.

Members of the Republican state committee will meet here Dec. 15 in their first post-election session. They will be asked to ratify some of Jasper's blueprints for a more vigorous pattern of organization building and for an aggressive challenge of the Democratic state administration taking office in January.

Jasper discounts the idea that the Republicans faced an inevitable defeat this year because of any Democratic trend.

"In the first place," he explained, "the labor people finally showed that they can deliver a vote, something that we used to doubt."

"Then, we've been in office here in Wisconsin for 20 years and there was an accumulation of little aggravations as a result. There were no really significant state issues, as the campaign showed. But it was hard to overcome the aggravations."

National Issues

"National issues affected us deeply here," he went on. "The party nationally didn't succeed in creating in the minds of the people a real dates for all districts and of distinction between the parties now held by Democrats. The national administration also was put on the defensive, which was a serious mistake. It should have taken the offensive, and could have done so easily. It should have pounded the idea that we tried to put over here—that the Democratic party is the home district party of the left-wingers. There are no left-wingers in the Republican party," the tall, lean party organization chieftain elaborated.

Jasper disclosed that he will continue on the state office payroll a corps of specialists about them."

Letters Pour in as Readers Assist With 'Bouncing Betty'

BY ANN LANDERS

Dear Readers: You've done it again! Your warm-hearted response to the plea of Lee of El Paso proved once more that America has a great big heart.

Lee, as you recall, wrote a simple but touching letter. She grew up in the middle west. Her Ann Landers mother had several flower boxes filled with Bouncing Betty. Lee loved the flower. When she married and moved to El Paso her mother packed some Bouncing Betty in a cardboard box so she could plant it in her new yard as a reminder of home.

Lee wrote: "My beautiful Bouncing Betty struggled in foreign soil for three years, then withered and died. If you, Ann, or any of your readers, can tell me where to find the plant or the seeds I would be very grateful. No florist here has heard of it."

Shortly after Lee's letter appeared in print, we were deluged with replies from almost every state in the union. Packages of seeds arrived, roots, leaves and catalogues. Many sent names and addresses of florists who carry the plant. A florist in Peoria, Ill., was suggested by a number of readers. Another from Charlotte, N. C., "specialized in this pinkish flower," wrote Mrs. H. J.

From Portland, Ore., to Portland, Me., readers had this to say: "Bouncing Betty should be available in almost every section of the United States. Lee is having trouble finding it because it's known under another name. Ask for Saponaria Officinalis or Soapwort. It is also known as Wild Sweet William."

Elsie D. in Seattle suggested that Lee keep the seed pods broken off and they will "bloom like crazy." Mary of Des Moines, Iowa, suggested shade for the plant in El Paso, although "in Iowa," she said, "it takes the full sun."

Cleaning Agent Use

Hank of Tampa, Fla., and Alice in Ada, Minn., came up with the fascinating information that Bouncing Betty is widely known as Soapwort because the leaves of the plant were once used as a cleaning agent, in place of soap.

So, good luck to you, Lee of El Paso, with your beautiful Bouncing Betty. And thanks to all the readers who were eager to help her recapture the joy of her childhood. There is something quite wonderful about people who will take time out of their busy lives to help bring a little happiness to the heart of a stranger, by helping her find a flower she loves.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm about to be divorced from a man who drove me almost out of my mind with his lying and cheating. I could write a book on his hi-jinks but I won't. I'll just tell you the final break came when I caught him sneaking out the back door with some of my clothes. He'd been giving them to a girl friend. It took me two years to catch on.

The question is this: I want to take back my maiden name and forget I ever knew this lunatic. My relatives say it wouldn't be decent for a woman who has been married to go by the title of "Miss."

What I want is to lose identification with this worm. Is it proper for a divorced woman to take back her maiden name and be known as "Miss Jones"?—Opal

Dear Opal: Before I can answer your question I'll have to ask you one. Do you and the worm have any children? If so, you owe it to them to keep the Mrs. no matter how strongly you feel about losing identification with him. If you wish to be free of his name and use your maiden name instead, this is permissible, but keep the Mrs. if children are involved.

LOYAL Plan Party

The LOYAL, League of Young Adult Lutherans, will hold a backwards party at 8 p.m. Tuesday at Trinity English Lutheran church parish hall.

The Rev. and Mrs. H. Shelby Lee had a brand new parsonage to show to members of the congregation who were entertained at the Lee residence Sunday afternoon at a tea and open house. The home was completed in September and the Lee's moved in Sept. 3. Mrs. Lee, right, is showing E. R. Hollander, Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Marian Anderson Works Quietly, Listens, Learns at UN

United Nations, N.Y.—When Marian Anderson was chosen as an American delegate to the U.N., a friend told her: "We're expecting great things of you."

After two months of the general assembly session, her friends may be disappointed that the Negro contralto hasn't turned the U.N. into a sounding board for her ideals of international goodwill.

She prefers to work more quietly. Opening out her palm to an interviewer, she explained: "We try to get in the hand — not the fist."

"One speaks out; one sits; one is listened to; one listens; one presents two or three papers," she said, describing her U.N. tasks as personally as possible to acknowledge the debt to state department speech writers and other aides.

Fighting the cold war and negotiating with the Russians she leaves to "others who know more about it than ourself."

Assembly Committee

Miss Anderson spends about six hours a day in the assembly's 81-nation trusteeship committee, a watchdog over more than 100 million Africans and Asians in nations that are technically wards of the U.N.

Her job is explaining the U.S. policy of encouraging democracy and independence for the U.N. trust territories when they've emerged far enough from their tribal past to handle their problems.

"I had felt some shyness, some anxiety about coming into this committee," she told fellow delegates in her first speech. "But ever since the first day one has felt at home here."

That brief introduction, spoken slowly and with almost musical precision, produced a startling halt to the regular background noise of paper shuffling, whispered chatter and the footfalls of meandering delegates. "You could have heard a pin drop," said committee chairman Frederick Boland of Ireland.

Only Negro

Miss Anderson is the committee's only Negro delegate from any of the western nations which administer trust territories. This fact is not lost on her dark-skinned colleagues from Africa and Asia.

A delegate from a newly independent nation said privately that Miss Anderson's appointment was a good sign because he felt it showed U.S. policy was growing more liberal toward nations like his own.

"The people from the (U.S.) delegation behave toward her extremely correctly—perhaps over-correctly—but we have been watching," he added, "to see if she would become a rubber stamp."

"We all noticed about a week ago when the United States had to disagree with us Afro-Asians, they pulled her out of the committee just before the vote. Of course she may have had another appointment, but we'll never know."

W. L. Lundy Weds Mary Timmers

Miss Mary Timmers became the bride of William L. Lundy, Jr., at 10 a.m. Saturday at St. Theresa Catholic church. The Rev. F. A. Milbauer officiated at the double ring ceremony which preceded a nuptial low mass.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Joseph Timmers, Sr., was escorted down the aisle by her father for her marriage to the son of Mrs. William L. Lundy, Sr., 1229 W. Lawrence street.

Mrs. Joseph G. Kilsdonk, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Lawrence J. Lundy, Appleton, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Mr. Kilsdonk and James Graham, Appleton. A dinner for the immediate family was held after the ceremony at Hammen's, Little Chute.

New Washer-Dryer Saves 50 Gal. Water Each Load

A new RCA Whirlpool Washer-Dryer Combination that saves up to 50 gallons of water with every load is being introduced this week at Good Housekeeping, 425 W. College. The unit washes, rinses three times and dries 10 pounds of clothes in one continuous cycle. It is also said to save up to one-half the soap or detergent normally used.

According to Harley Slezak, owner of Good Housekeeping, this RCA Whirlpool Washer-Dryer offers users a completely different washing action. It is called "Filter-Stream" washing, and clothes are washed WITH water, not in water. The forces of two moving elements—water and water-soaked clothes—are combined to automatically give each fabric its own thorough yet gentle washing. It is claimed further that "Filter-Stream" washing washes cleaner than ordinary tumble-type action.

The RCA Whirlpool Washer-Dryer combination is a full-size washer and a full-size dryer, both contained in one completely automatic unit that is just 33" wide. By comparison, this is about half the space occupied by a separate washer and dryer. The "Combo" is considerably lower in cost than separate washer and dryer units.

There are four automatic wash temperatures, including a cold water washing for special fabrics. Both warm and cold rinsing is provided, also. The dryer features infinite drying heats, plus five automatic settings: HIGH for woolens and rugs, MEDIUM for cottons and whites, LOW for Nylon and silk, DELICATE FABRIC, and AIR for fluffing and airing.

Other features of the RCA Whirlpool Combination Washer-Dryer include a built-in lint-filter, bleach dispenser, porcelain enamel top, and fully flexible operation (stop, repeat, shorten, lengthen or skip any cycle). Adv.

No Bible in Cornerstone

New York — No Bible was placed in the cornerstone of the new church house of the First Presbyterian church of New York Sunday because parishioners feel the Bible should be read and studied, not buried.

The Rev. Dr. John O. Melin, minister, said:

"We see no magical or good luck symbol in the word of God as contained in the scriptures, so we are not including a Bible as is usually done in such cases."

A church house stands for the fact a Bible is to be studied, he said.

When she walks into the delegates' lounge, fellow delegates chat about mutual acquaintances, sometimes swap a story or just exchange hellos.

She goes to plenty of U.N. parties — the oil in the ponderous machinery of diplomacy — but not to discuss international politics.

"One tries to be a good listener," she said.

Negro delegates have been careful not to bait her on race problems in the United States. A colleague from Europe explained this: "They'd better not try putting her on the spot. All she has to do is say, 'Look at me.'"

What has she accomplished in two months?

"One wishes to do something," she says. "One should take as active a part as possible. Each little drop of goodwill adds to the river of international understanding."

Concert-Goers Not Deterred by Snow; Enjoy Symphony

BY DANIEL SMITH
The Lawrence Symphony orchestra, under the direction of Kenneth Byler, gave its premier performance of the 1938-9 season Sunday night in Memorial Chapel. Not intimidated or discouraged by the mildly inclement weather, moderate-sized audience responded vigorously to a well-balanced and most interesting program.

The Lawrence symphony is not composed of conservatory students exclusively, but draws from the college and the city of Appleton as well. Welding a group such as this into a cohesive and expressive ensemble is no small task. The progress the symphony has made since Byler's advent, in spite of annual changes of personnel, is most remarkable.

Spirited Playing
The Bach - Albert Prelude Choral and Fugue which opened the program was, unfortunately, more Albert than Bach. After an all-too-short prelude, the brass launched into a chorale of dubious origin which was later juxtaposed on the harmonic foundation of the "Great" G Minor organ fugue.

The theme of this fugue was a very popular one during Bach's time and it was not unusual for composers to borrow it and treat it as they saw fit. One can be assured that it has never had this type of transcriptive treatment before, even under the hands of Stokowski. However, credit must be given for a spirited playing.

Mozart's Symphony No. 31 in D Major is the finest symphonic work of his adolescence. Written in the spring of 1778, it is a short, bright and not-too-elaborate work, which left the audience convinced and satisfied.

Shows Control
The control Byler had over the ensemble in the second movement, especially at cadences and ends of phrases, was most gratifying to me.

The Hindemith Two Pieces for Strings from Op. 44 opened the contemporary half of the program. The strings proved themselves admirably, making up in quantity what they lacked in quality.

A stunning reading of the Symphony No. 2 by Vittorio Giannini closed the program. Marked by vitality, rhythmic interest and clarity of form, it was truly representative of the contemporary idiom to which Byler has long been introducing his musicians.

Thief Proves Value Of Insurance Policy

Danville, Va. — Dave Spangler took out robbery insurance last week on two of his three dry cleaning branch offices.

He reasoned the third branch, on one of Danville's busiest downtown streets and within half a block of police headquarters, was beyond the daring of any stick-up artist.

A youthful robber this week held up one of the branches—the uninsured one—and made off with $91.

Sen. Douglas Says Ike Sure of Support In Any Berlin Blockade

Tulsa, Okla. — Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill.) declared that if the Eisenhower administration chooses to use armed force to break a second blockade in Berlin, the action would receive support from him and other Democrats in congress.

He said this country has a choice of two alternatives in the Berlin crisis—break a second blockade "with an armored column or use the airlift as was done in the first blockade."

"Both would be supported by Democrats," he said.

Asked why this nation should go "all out to defend Berlin and not Quemoy and Matsu," the senator said: "We have a 4-power agreement in Berlin to occupy the city and there is no such legal standpoint regarding the two islands. Besides, they are not necessary to the defense of Formosa."

In Good Taste Incident Happened In Theater

BY EMILY POST
Dear Mrs. Post: Not long ago I went to the theater with my daughter-in-law. During intermission she chatted with several people she knew who sat nearby, but did not introduce me to them. I felt very uncomfortable sitting there with nothing to do but listen to their talk. I thought she should have introduced me and mentioned it afterward to her. She seemed surprised and quoted you as saying not to introduce in public places.

Answer: It is true that introductions should not be made in public needlessly. But in a situation where the stranger is drawn into the conversation for more than a moment, she certainly should be introduced. This would have been especially true in your case if your daughter-in-law's friends sat directly in front or behind you so that you were as near to them as she. If they were over on her side and out of reach of you, then the omission would be understandable.

Send Religious Cards

Dear Mrs. Post: My mother died three months ago and I would like to know if it would be proper for members of my family to send Christmas cards this year. We stand divided on this issue. Some think it would be all right and others think it would be shocking. Also, is it proper for others to send Christmas greetings to a bereaved family?

Answer: Restrained cards that emphasize the religious side of Christmas would be proper for members of your family to send this year, and proper for anyone to send to a bereaved family.

Common Sense

Dear Mrs. Post: At the table when a bite of food is taken into the mouth that unexpectedly turns out to be burning hot, isn't it plain common sense to drop it immediately from mouth to plate?

Answer: Indeed it is common sense to remedy the situation as quickly as possible. But there is certainly no excuse for being offensive about it when you can take a swallow of water immediately.

sin of the bridegroom, and Lee Westerfeld, Zachow, Shawano county.

A reception was held at Hotel Appleton after the ceremony.

The young Mrs. Beyer was graduated from Rhinelander High school and attended Wisconsin State college, Oshkosh. She is employed by Aid Association for Lutherans.

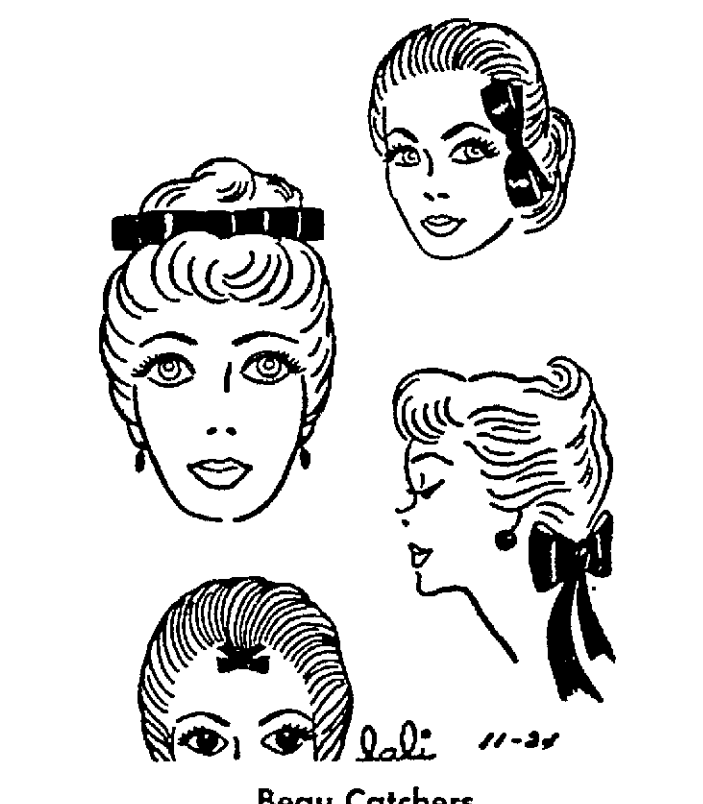

Mr. Beyer, a graduate of Hortonville High school, served two years in the army. He is employed by Atlas mill of Kimberly-Clark corporation.

Pilgrims Set Pattern For Courage, Freedom

BY ANGELO PATRI

Thanksgiving day is not just a day for a turkey dinner. It marks an important period in the history of this country—its founding by the Pilgrim fathers.

It was they who set the pattern, the tradition of adventure, courage, faith in personal opinion,—"Over the river and through freedom of the soul. It was the woods" both set to mutely who set the American story; Whittier's Pumpkin Pie, ideal that pledges one's life to be recited, the historical to the cause of one's faith, background to be explored; It is such thoughts as these the character of the Pilgrims that we should express in telling the children the meaning of our celebration of the first story is needed in this day of Thanksgiving day. Too often so much dependence on government that they get is the idea of association, on other people in that the Pilgrims were odd one form of association and people who wore black suits and buckles, when so many people and sugarloaf hats and buckles seem to resign their personal led shoes. How they came to responsibility, their personal be in New England, why they feelings and opinions to others were giving thanks, is not altered for a mess of pottage, ways made clear to them, nor The story of the founders' why we in our turn should be faith, stubborn resistance to following their example.

Historic Adventure

The story of the Pilgrims is one of thrilling adventure, an historic episode, a crusade—and the children love hearing it. There is a rich literature concerning this and during the month of November the schools could well present it to the various classes beginning with the simple story for the beginners' grade on through to the secondary schools.

There is the poetry—"The breaking waves dashed high" al right to personal opinion,—"Over the river and through freedom of the soul. It was the woods" both set to mutely who set the American story; Whittier's Pumpkin Pie, ideal that pledges one's life to be recited, the historical to the cause of one's faith, background to be explored; It is such thoughts as these the character of the Pilgrims that we should express in telling the children the meaning of our celebration of the first story is needed in this day of Thanksgiving day. Too often so much dependence on government that they get is the idea of association, on other people in that the Pilgrims were odd one form of association and people who wore black suits and buckles, when so many people and sugarloaf hats and buckles seem to resign their personal led shoes. How they came to responsibility, their personal be in New England, why they feelings and opinions to others were giving thanks, is not altered for a mess of pottage, ways made clear to them, nor The story of the founders' why we in our turn should be faith, stubborn resistance to following their example.

Actor Tom Pittman Died Almost Instantly, Autopsy Indicates

Los Angeles — Actor Tom Pittman never recovered consciousness after his sports car plunged into a 150-foot ravine Oct. 31, an autopsy has shown.

The car's wreckage and the body of the 25-year-old promising performer in movies and TV were found in the Hollywood hills Wednesday by a policeman.

An autopsy surgeon said yesterday Pittman died of a huge depressed skull fracture and could have lived only briefly.

Pittman's car left the road on a sharp curve as he was returning to his apartment after attending a Halloween party.

The denial was prompted by a New China News agency report quoting Foreign Minister Subandrio as telling an Indian correspondent that nationalization is seriously considered.

Ministry Spokesman Sumarto said Subandrio did not make the remark, and added the future of foreign oil and other non-Dutch firms is guaranteed under Indonesian foreign investment law.

Family Diary

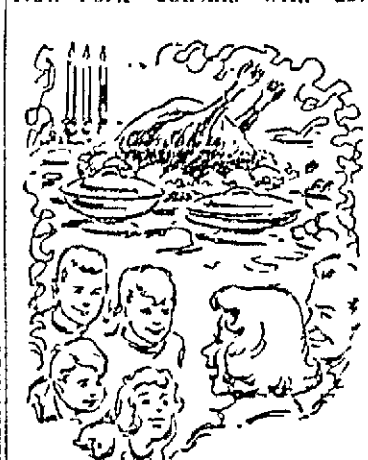

Griffiths Tangle With Thanksgiving Tradition

BY JEANETTE GRIFFITH

I groan when I read an article which starts out, "Are you in a rut?" For no matter what kind of rut is mentioned, invariably I am in it.

The old pattern held when I found the piece beginning, "Are you in a rut with your Thanksgiving menu?" I am. We have been eating turkey, chestnut stuffing, cranberries, pumpkin pie, etc., etc. for so many years I can't remember anything else.

I read the exotic menu suggested in the article with considerable interest, for this year we are to have John's New York cousins with us.

They are not exactly exotic, but the nearest to that of anyone we have in our family. When we visited them last year they took us to a Greek place where most of the food was wrapped in grape leaves. John was stunned.

I realized that I would have to introduce the idea of this exciting new menu with considerable eagerness, for when it comes to the holidays, the members of my family are old die-hard traditionalists.

Miss Rutabagas

I encountered a sample of this only last year when I omitted mashed buttered rutabagas from the Thanksgiving dinner. We had scarcely seated ourselves when the general cry went up, "Where are the mashed buttered rutabagas?" My explanation that only John and I ever ate them and they didn't make us particularly happy had little effect. Those missing rutabagas were mourned right through the dessert course.

So I knew what I'd be up against this year and went into considerable mouth watering as I spoke of the Chicken Walnut, Shanghai style, with its soy sauce, mushrooms and red chili. I became lyrical describing the chocolate almond whipped cream torte. "You can't mean we're going to eat that stuff for Thanksgiving?" Libby protested. "Why we have to have turkey and pumpkin pie. It's traditional."

"It doesn't have to keep on being traditional," I said. Sally and Tommy burst into song. "Over the river and through the woods, to grandmother's house we go. The horse knows the way to carry the sleigh through the deep and drifted snow-ow."

False Tradition

"There's a sample of your tradition," I pointed out. "You children have never gone over the river and through the woods to your grandmother's, and you've never gone anywhere in a horse and sleigh."

"Daddy did," Tommy said, "in the olden days before they had cars."

"The way you talk," Bruce said, "you'd think Dad was a Pilgrim father!"

"We know he isn't a Pilgrim father," Little Sally defended Tommy stoutly. "We know Daddy isn't even a hundred years old."

John was beginning to look a little dismal at this turn in the conversation and I said at once, "It's true your father didn't do much sleigh riding, but I've been told he was the fastest boy with a sled in his town."

Memory stirred in me. "I wasn't bad at coasting either."

I remember the Thanksgiving my uncle brought me a big red sled. I stayed out on the hill from dawn until my mother called me to dinner. I was almost frozen and half starved and I went into the dining room and saw the big golden brown turkey, and smelled the chestnut stuffing and the spices in the pumpkin pie—"I stopped talking. There was a great grin on the face of every member of my family. I had set the trap and walked right into it.

Well, what do you think we're having for Thanksgiving dinner this year? You've guessed it. Right down to the mashed butter rutabagas. (Distributed 1958 by The Hall Syndicate, Inc.)

Competition of Industry Offers Problem to Education Today

BY JAMES BATT
Madison — "Geographical frontiers are swiftly vanishing, but the thrill of pioneering will always be present in the world of research and education."

That's the testimonial of a man who has devoted his life to the task of "pushing back the frontier of knowledge."

Dr. Farrington Daniels, chairman of the department of chemistry and internationally-known scientist.

A member of the UW faculty for 38 years, Dr. Daniels has played a key role in launching many of the scientific advances which have labeled our times, "The Atomic Age."

Former director of the metallurgical laboratory at the University of Chicago where much of the early research on atomic energy was conducted, he was chairman of the board of governors of the Atomic Energy commission's

This is the fifth in a series of six interviews with educators at the University of Wisconsin. Today's article presents the views of Dr. Farrington Daniels, chairman of the department of chemistry.

Argonne National Laboratory from 1946 to 1948. His most recent activities have been in quest of ways to harness the energy of the sun and the atom.

"One of the biggest problems in education today," Prof. Daniels reports, "is to meet the competition of industry — to offer our faculty more than gratitude."

What can we offer our teachers? Dr. Daniels believes, "Improved research opportunities and better salary are key factors."

Increased research opportunities, according to Dr. Daniels, imply "lighter teaching loads as well as more money for equipment and assistants."

"Help is coming from various foundations along with private and governmental aid, but the schools themselves must also increase their contributions. The simple problems have been solved. More complicated tools are necessary for more complicated problems," he explains.

"Teachers' salaries are improving—but so are the financial offerings of industry," the UW professor adds.

Exclusive Advantages Pointing out that teaching has its exclusive advantages, he explains, "There is the satisfaction of working with young people... watching them develop and seeing some take their place as academic pioneers."

An emphasis on research, Dr. Daniels feels, means an emphasis on sound instruction. "Research increases the world's pool of knowledge, reflects esteem on the nation and the school, satisfies the academic needs of the individual, and reflects knowledge from researcher to student."

"Present or acquired knowledge is mainly the product of secondary education. It is the purpose of our institutions of higher learning to lead to the exploration of new knowledge," he comments.

Dr. Daniels concludes, "Higher education is enhanced through research. Not only is there the thrilling experience of being on the frontier of discovery, there is the generation of enthusiasm for learning in both faculty and students. This is the heartbeat of a university."

A Touch of Spice adds flavor to fresh cranberries, a favorite relish on the Thanksgiving dinner menu.

Spiced for Flavor Cranberries Native Fruit, Popular for Thanksgiving

BY EDITH M. BARBER

Cranberries and turkey go together like bread and butter, or bacon and eggs. We could hardly imagine a Thanksgiving dinner without this fruit in jelly or sauce, and with or without spice.

While the berries are plentiful in the market as they are just now, it is worthwhile to prepare the sauce or the spiced berries in a large enough quantity so that there will be a jar or two for another meal. The jelly must, however, be made only a day or two before it is to be used, as, if kept any longer it will be inclined to "weep."

There are only a few sections of the country where cranberries grow well. Along the Massachusetts coast and also in New Jersey cranberry bogs flourish. Strangely enough, Wisconsin supplies a good many berries and there are a few to be found along the coast of Washington and Oregon.

There is a theory that the glaciers which covered northern America in days long gone, left a salty and sandy deposit in these far distant states and, for this reason, the berry bushes like the soil.

The cranberry is a native American fruit, although there are berries somewhat like these native to northern Europe. It is recorded that the French wife of an officer in Washington's army sent some of these strange berries to her family in France during the American revolution.

Spiced Cranberries
4 cups (1 pound) cranberries
2 cups sugar
1 cup water
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon ground cloves
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1 teaspoon ground allspice
1 teaspoon ground ginger
Wash cranberries and place in saucepan with sugar, water and salt. Cover and cook only until skins burst. Remove from heat and stir in spices. Cool. Yield: 3 1/2 cups.

Molded Cranberry Sauce
4 cups firm cranberries
1 cup water
2 cups sugar
Wash cranberries, removing bits of stems and wilted fruit. Add water and cook just until skins burst. Remove from heat, add sugar, and stir until sugar is thoroughly dissolved. Pour into 1-quart mold and chill, or pour into hot sterilized glasses and seal.

Record Prices Paid at Art Auction

New York — Record auction prices were rung up last week for post-impressionist paintings at the Parke-Bernet galleries.

Altogether, 29 works went for a total of $1,548,500.

Top price of $152,000 was paid for Picasso's "Mother and Child," said to be the highest sum ever paid at public auction for a Picasso.

The painting, which cost $45,000 in 1955, was bought from a dealer by Arnold Kerkby in 1957 for $145,000. Thus, in this sale of his collection, Kerkby lost $31,000 on this particular deal.

Kerkby is a hotel executive of New York and California. Cezanne's "Garcon Coucher" brought $125,000, and Renoir's "Jardin a Sorrente" was sold at $105,000. High prices also were paid for paintings by Utrillo, Rouault, Modigliani, Bonnard, Picasso, Signac, Seurat, and Matisse.

Van Gogh's "Bateau a l'Ancre" was purchased for $67,500. Many of the works were bought for private collectors by dealers.

Among those sighted in the auction crowd were actress Greer Garson, Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov, and Mrs. Edward G. Robinson, ex-wife of the actor.

Pocketknife Slayer To Have Mental Tests

Ashtand — A 75-year-old man has been ordered to undergo a mental examination in connection with the pocketknife slaying of another resident of the Ashtand County home.

John Foris, Ashtand, waived preliminary hearing Thursday before Municipal Judge Thomas Auch, who bound Foris over to circuit court on a second degree murder charge.

Circuit Judge Lewis J. Charles then ordered the mental test.

George Boris, 70, was stabbed Saturday after he and Foris had returned to the county home from a trip downtown.

King Hussein Acts, Looks Like Real Ruler

Jordan's Youthful Leader Commands Respect, Allegiance of Countrymen

BY JOSEPH ALSOP

Amman, Jordan — The fine head is far too big for the short, slender body. The dark, deep-fringed Arab eyes are far too penetrating. The set of the mouth far too resolute for the boyish face. Even the musical voice is far too deep and resonant for so small a man.

unely commanding presence. When the young king received me the other day for a long private talk, I could hardly resist the temptation to put the question bluntly: "How do you do it and what makes you tick?" But the answer would surely have been little plane to his former fly-polite and meaningless; for this seeming boy always speaks with the circumspect gleish. Flying just 10 feet above the ground, Dalglish sets a wrenching zig-zag course. The king coolly takes I shall not record the inter-view in detail. Hussein told me what he wanted to tell me new pass that the MIGs — that his storm-tossed little make ("as though he had king of Jordan, achieves what country had never been near- been talking about the weather, few men twice or thrice his er, Dalglish says later).

most older politicians should envy, of never being self-revealing. So what he says rarely casts any light on the question above-noted, which is nonetheless the really interesting question about Hussein's naked courage. Or consider his cool firmness when the bloody coup in Baghdad shook Jordan to its foundations, and another coup in Amman was expected every hour. Or finally, for contrast, consider the strange night-scene at the great Arab legion camp at Zerqa, when they celebrated the king's 23rd birthday last week. All the grave, elderly notables of the kingdom are there to salute him, and he is as grave as the old men until the soldiers dance. Dance, endlessly they dance, great stamping, weaving circles with a bagpiper, a flute scenes in 1957, when Hussein's best friend and chosen chief of army staff, Ali Abu Nuwar, many of the army's other senior officers, and all the members of his government joined to destroy the king; and were defeated only by Hussein's naked courage. Or consider his cool firmness when the bloody coup in Baghdad shook Jordan to its foundations, and another coup in Amman was expected every hour. Or finally, for contrast, consider the strange night-scene at the great Arab legion camp at Zerqa, when they celebrated the king's 23rd birthday last week. All the grave, elderly notables of the kingdom are there to salute him, and he is as grave as the old men until the soldiers dance. Dance, endlessly they dance, great stamping, weaving circles with a bagpiper, a flute player, and a star performer, many families today have taking the girl's part at the center of each circle. The star performers win loud, ribald cheers when they parody the belly dance. But the roaring is loudest when the king, looking like a boy for once, suddenly grins and shouts for a certain Ali, who turns, out to be a specialist in simultaneous dancing and Sten-guns. If the voice of Nasser and the hand of the Kremlin have lost their power in Jordan, it is because very great numbers of Egyptian and communist agents and sympathizers are in jail or in concentration camps. If the country is more stable than it has ever been in the recent past, it is because the army's loyalty, tested for all to see, of the old rulers of the desert. These facts carry their own penalties, moreover. Among Jordan's town dwellers too many families contained at least one active or suspected Nasserite or communist. Too

Manned Air Craft May Detect ICBM

San Diego, Calif. — An air force general says the first real defense against intercontinental ballistic missiles may come with manned space craft. The prediction was made at an awards dinner last night at the 49th national convention of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraternity, published of the Mexico, Mo., Maj. Gen. Eugene P. Mussett, Lowry air force base, Colo., told the delegates: "As yet there is no absolute, ly effective defense available, for use against such weapons. Although I cannot predict what the role of the manned vehicle will be in these operations, I do believe that man in space in a defensive role must be considered a real possibility." On tap for today were a luncheon address by Sig Mickelson, vice president of the Columbia Broadcasting system, and several panel discussions. One of the discussions, moderated by Robert L. White II, co-editor and co-publisher of the Mexico, Mo., Ledger, will deal with Alaska and Hawaii. Another involves the American Bar association's controversial canon 35, which relates to the activities of news photographers in courtrooms.

Speaker Urges Individuality In Social Work

Prof. Louis Towley Warns of Inroads of 'Organization Man'

BY BETTY KILICH Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Milwaukee — The concept of the "organization man" is creeping into the philosophy of social workers and should be abolished as much as possible, social workers heard this morning.

Keynote speaker at the Wisconsin welfare forum, sponsored by the Wisconsin Welfare Council, was Prof. Louis Towley, of the Washington University school of social work.

He said the social worker should have more allegiance to the community than to the agencies for which he works. "What is most wanted in social work practice is not the anonymity of the agency but a recognition of the individual practitioner within the agency structure and the community," he contended.

Not Abolish Agencies

This is not a movement to abolish agencies but to relate them to the needs they are set up to meet. A profession, he said, is not an assemblage of agencies but an assemblage of individuals who have gained competence in the field.

Often social workers are identified and identify themselves as being on the staff of such and such agency, he said.

"A worse situation is when the social worker himself derives a sense of personal reality from the agency rather than from his own competence," Towley said. "There is a hierarchy of agencies, some with more prestige than others. It is a deplorable situation when a social worker gains prestige from his agencies."

The most important factor that the agencies supply, he said, is their legal entity.

He asked that more responsibility be given the individual social worker and more opportunity for individual decisions.

The social worker should be able to see himself as the heart of the agency. Certain supervisory and administrative positions, he said, should be cut down to size and the positions rated by the persons filling them, rather than by the title.

should have no ceiling on salaries, he declared, and workers, often without executive ability, but with professional competence, should be rated as high or higher than some executives.

In an informal session Sunday night, Rudolph Danstedt, Washington representative of five positions, he said, should be cut down to size and the positions rated by the persons filling them, rather than by the title.

Dairy Gives Appleton Subsidiary More Duties

Western Condensing, Blue Moon Cheese Management Combined; No Personnel Shift

Management of Appleton's Western Condensing company and Blue Moon Cheese company, of Thorp, have been combined by Foremost Dairies, Inc., San Francisco, parent organization of both.

The move means the Thorp company will take its administrative and sales direction from Western management at Appleton rather than from the San Francisco home office. No administrative changes are planned.

Announcement of the move came today from P. Reid Givver, executive vice president of Foremost, in San Francisco. He said it was being made because of the related operations and geographic closeness of the two subsidiaries.

Subsidiary in 1955 Blue Moon became a Foremost subsidiary in 1955. It manufactures a wide variety of process and Wisconsin American cheddar cheese, ranging from 8-ounce packages to 5,000-pound wheels. Products are distributed to supermarkets, institutional outlets and food manufacturers.

Pair Elected to Lead Newly Formed Industrial Division

F. A. Meythaler, president and treasurer of Appleton Juvenile Furniture company, is president of the newly organized industrial division of Appleton Chamber of Commerce.

John M. Hayes, president of Appleton Manufacturing company, is vice president.

The men were picked by the division's 12-member board of directors. Both are directors. Directors indicated their first order of business. Chamber Sec. Kenneth Corbett said, will be to review the findings of a questionnaire sent out by the special organizing committee.

17 Areas of Interest
A survey by the organizing committee showed 17 areas of activity as important enough for inclusion in a division program.

Chief among these, Corbett said, is a positive program to acquaint the public, particularly employees, of the problems, philosophy and objectives of industry. Most industrialists feel they've had none or poor public knowledge of their ideas.

Another area in which large interest has been shown is the suggested pooling of salary and fringe benefit information.

Driver Makes Wrong Turn Takes Cruise

Netsong, N. J.—A farm worker went for a moonlight cruise on a lake near here in a quarter-ton pickup truck last week.

George Johnstone, 28, drove 400 feet from shore before the truck stalled in three feet of water. His left turn light was blinking when police and first aid squad members rowed out to fetch him.

Police think Johnstone saw the path of light reflected on the water from the setting moon and turned right to follow it.

In doing so, he knocked down a fence post and bowled over a couple of rowboats stacked up for winter storage.

The police were still wondering today what charges to bring against Johnstone. They ruled out any summons for violating state navigation laws.

Doubts Russians Far Ahead in Long Range Ballistic Missiles

Washington — 48 — In the tense east-west race to develop a workable long range ballistic missile "there is no reason to believe that the Russians are appreciably ahead of us."

This is the view of Maj. Gen. B. A. Schriever, chief of the air force ballistic missile division.

He indicated in fact that the United States and Russia may achieve workable intercontinental ballistic missiles at about the same time.

He told the National Geographic Society that America can't afford to relax.

"The informed consensus would seem to be that the Soviet Union presently has an advantage in what we describe as the 'short range' or under 1,000 mile type of ballistic missile," he added.

"In the area of the intermediate range, or 1,500 mile ballistic missile, the situation is less clear. In this respect we should keep in mind that our own 1,500 mile IIRMs, the Thor and the Jupiter, have been quite successful in their recent tests."

Counties Have No Authority to Set Up Handicapped Schools

Madison — 49 — A county has no authority to set up countywide instructional centers or special schools for handicapped children, Atty. Gen. Stewart Honeck has said in an opinion.

Erwin C. Zastrow of Elk Horn, the district attorney of Walworth county, asked for the opinion.

Johnny Unitas, a Colt with a .45 for a passing arm, is healthy again.

He proved it Sunday, shooting down the title bid of the Los Angeles Rams and passing Baltimore to a 34-7 victory. It was the Colts' eighth triumph in nine National Football league games. Baltimore now leads the Western conference by two games with only three to play.

98-Yard Return
And Bobby Mitchell, Paul Brown's young speedster, is zooming toward acclaim as pro football's Rookie of the Year.

He looked it Sunday, shaking loose for a 98-yard touchdown run on the opening kickoff, then coming back in the same period with a 69-yard score on a punt return as the Cleveland Browns whipped the Philadelphia Eagles, 28-14. Cleveland, with a 7-2 record, leads the Eastern conference by one game with three remaining.

Although the Eagles are tied for last in the Eastern division, they've had some success containing Cleveland's explosive fullback, Jimmy Brown.

The Eagles limited Brown to 66 yards in 20 carries Sunday, his longest gain was nine yards.

Sunday's gains raised Brown's league-leading rushing yardage to 1,229. He has three more games to add to his yardage record which supplants the 1,146 yards Steve Van Buran gained for Philadelphia in 1949.

Game Behind
The New York Giants kept a game behind Cleveland with a 30-0 victory over the Washington Redskins, and the Pittsburgh Steelers, another game to the rear, hung on to the Giants' tail with a 27-20 triumph over the Chicago Cardinals.

In the west, the Chicago Bears took over sole possession of second place by beating the Detroit Lions, 20-7, while Los Angeles faltered. The Lions' defeat eliminated

Four Cities Bid for Franchises

Chicago — Three-I league baseball executives, emerging from a gruelling 7-hour annual meeting at the Lake Shore Athletic club here Sunday, discovered that their bid for expansion to an 8-team league in 1959 must be carried to the Minor league meetings, beginning Dec. 1, in Washington, D. C.

Officials from the individual Three-I league clubs, along with League President Hal Totten, agreed that no further action on obtaining new franchises should be taken until they meet in Washington with Minor League President George S. Trautman and officials of the Class D Midwest league.

The major portion of the meeting, which dealt with possible franchise shifts and realignment, was closed to reporters. But, club owners confided after the meeting that the league will seek permission from Trautman to obtain the Dubuque and Clinton, Ia. franchises for Three-I membership next summer.

Not Represented
Clinton and Dubuque, currently members of the Midwest circuit, are considered solid baseball towns and, from the geographical standpoint, as ideal potential members. Each city is less than 300 miles from Green Bay and the Fox Cities, and in close proximity to the league's other Iowa members, Cedar Rapids, Davenport, and Burlington.

The Iowa communities under consideration also would be acceptable to the other current member, Winona, Minn., which Sunday was awarded a franchise for the full 1959 season providing it is successful in obtaining a new major league working agreement by Dec. 12. Winona now has a definite problem in this respect since the Kansas City Athletics announced at the

1957 'Ragamuffins' LSU and California Cement Bowl Bids

Spots Remain Open in 'Sugar,' 'Cotton' Games

Louisiana State and California, a couple of ragamuffin outfits last year that could win only half a dozen games between them, were high in college football's top society today preparing for important bowl assignments New Year's day.

Last year, Louisiana State had a 5-5 record and finished seventh in the Southeastern conference. This year, the Tigers have the only undefeated-untied record among the major teams of the country.

They'll be Hosts
They'll be the hosts in the Sugar bowl in New Orleans by virtue of having won their conference title. It will be their first bowl appearance since 1950 when they were slaughtered by Oklahoma, 35-0, in the Sugar bowl.

LSU swept past 10 opponents and didn't stumble once. They wound up their first undefeated-untied season since 1908 Saturday by grinding out a 62-0 victory over Tulane.

Their Sugar bowl opponent may not be known until next Saturday when the last sprinkling of games are played. Southern Methodist is being considered, but the Mustangs will have to beat Cotton bowl-bound Texas Christian. Otherwise, Clemson, the Atlantic Coast conference champion, probably will get the bid.

As for California, the Bears compiled a miserable 1-9 record in 1957. They were consigned to the scrap heap in this the final year of the Pacific Coast conference as it now stands.

But, after losing to College of the Pacific and Michigan State, they suddenly caught on to the split-T which Elliott had installed last year. They lost only one more game and wrapped up the title with a breathless 16-15 triumph over Stanford.

California will meet Iowa, the Big Ten champion in the Rose bowl, and, just as in almost all its games through the fall, will be the underdog.

Tigers Seek To Deal Hoeft For Lumpe

Detroit — The Detroit Tigers are trying to trade pitcher Billy Hoeft to the New York Yankees for infielder Jerry Lumpe. The Tigers would throw in another player along with Hoeft in order to get Lumpe, who could solve Detroit's third base problem.

General Manager John J. McFall would like to have shortstop Gil McDougald, but realizes the chances of getting the Yankee captain are remote.

He feels New York might be persuaded to give up Lumpe, who shared the Yankee third base job with Andy Carey last season.

San Francisco Breaks Up Tight Tilt With 21-Point 4th Period Before 19,786 in Milwaukee

BY ART DALEY

Post-Crescent News Service

Milwaukee — The Packers continued in an offense-less rut Sunday.

They scored one touchdown and two field goals for 12 points in the process of losing their seventh National Football league game — a 33-12 battle with the San Francisco 49ers in County stadium. This was a wend game, without with an onside kickoff and ended with a free-for-all fight, with the fans pouring out of the stands to get a closer look. The contest wasn't exactly an "advertisement" for pro football, and six players were ejected for fighting.

Oddities seemed to run in pairs. In the first two minutes, the 49ers tied two onside kickoffs and in the first half there were two extra points blocked, one for each side, and two field goals blocked — both off the toe of Gordy Soltau, who tried six FGs in all. San Francisco got off to a 6-0 edge in the first 1-41 and the first of two Paul Hornung field goals made it 6-3 at 6:20. Billy Howton's first touchdown of the season — on a 16-yard "Babe" Parilla pass, put the Packers ahead at 9:25 in the first quarter.

The Score

The 49ers tied the score at 9-9 on a Soltau field goal in the second quarter and went ahead on his third FG in the third quarter. Hornung's second field goal tied it again 12-12 at 5:29 of the third period. San Francisco then broke away with three touchdowns in the last nine minutes of the

Spaniard Wins International Golf Crown

Irish Team Cops Canada Cup Title In Mexico City

Mexico City —AP— The dramatic victory of an ignored Spaniard and an underrated Irish team in the Canada cup finals was called further proof the U. S. and British Isles no longer rule the golf world.

Not only did Angel Miguel win the individual world's championship and Ireland the team trophy Sunday, but a list of the leaders sounded like a United Nations roster.

"Golf is now really an international game," said Frank Pace, Jr., president of the sponsoring International Golf association.

Only once before, in 1955, had the matches ended so dramatically.

Course Darkened

But as skies began to darken on the Club de Golf Mexico course, young Miguel and stocky, 45-year-old Harry Bradshaw of Ireland battled to an unexpected tie with 72-hole totals of 206.

Without rest, Miguel and Bradshaw went into a sudden death playoff. They were even for two holes. On the 188-yard third, both sliced their drives into the spectators. Luckily, both balls bounced back into play on the green.

Spectacular Putt

Miguel sank a spectacular 25-foot putt for a deuce, Bradshaw missed by inches and the Spaniard, new world's golf champion, was mobbed by the excited fans.

Behind Miguel and Bradshaw came Florio Van Danc of Belgium with a 287; Miguel Sala, Colombia, 288; Eric Brown, Scotland, and Frank Phillips, Australia, 289; Leopoldo Ruiz, Argentina, 292; Harold Henning, South Africa, 293; and Chen Ching-po, China, 293.

Spain was second in the team competition with 592, followed by South Africa 594 and Australia and Scotland 598.

Wyoming Accepts Sun Bowl Bid

Laramie, Wyo. —AP—Wyoming's Cowboys, football champions of the Skyline conference, will make their second trip in three years to the Sun bowl in El Paso, Tex.

The "Pole" players voted Sunday to accept an invitation to the Dec. 31 game at the Sun bowl, where they scored a 21-14 victory over Texas Tech in the 1956 contest.

The Cowboys had a 7-3 record this season, losing to Kansas State, New Mexico and Air Force.

DeFino Paces Holy Cross

Marquette Suffers 6th Loss of Season

Worcester, Mass. —AP—Bob DeFino scored two touchdowns for Holy Cross, which took a 14-0 victory over underdog Marquette Saturday.

The closest the Warriors came to scoring was in the final period when they marched to the Holy Cross 9 and again to the 7.

Marquette finished the contest with a 2-6-1 record. Holy Cross has a 6-2 count.

It wasn't until late in the third period that Marquette got rolling.

2 Full Incomplete

On the two occasions when Marquette was in scoring position, the Warriors ran out of downs, the first time as two passes fell incomplete and the second on a stalled attack.

Pete Hall completed four of eight passes for 60 yards and his Marquette teammate John Cornell clicked for 10 of 20 and 110 yards.

DeFino completed a 67-yard Holy Cross drive by cracking right guard for the first touchdown in the first period and then scampered nine yards for the other touchdown in the second period.

Passes by Tommy Greene of Holy Cross moved the Crusaders for the 67 yards with the aid of DeFino's running.

A punt by DeFino, with Greene taking a rest on the bench, helped set up the other touchdown. DeFino kicked out of bounds on the Marquette 18. After holding the Warriors, DeFino took the return punt and raced it 16 yards to Marquette's 37. DeFino scored seven plays later and sophomore Jack Allen rushed for a 2-point conversion.

At Wilson, Coach Bill Radke hasn't yet decided on a starting lineup. Howard Cochodas (6-0) is his center and David Hem (5-8) will be one guard. The other guard will be either 5-6 Bob Paessler or 5-6 John Kading. Three boys, all about 5-10, are still in the running for the forward spots. They are: Wayne Trinzak, Earl Lorenz and Jim Slezak.

Madison Squad Small Jerry Verkuilen a guard-forward, is recovering from a broken finger and will see action when it mends. Other top candidates include center Marty Kapp, forward Dick Harder and guard Dick Malueg.

Radke is now carrying 15 from an original roster of 38. Madison Coach Sherwood Russell, veteran McKinley cage mentor, has been hampered by lack of time and gym facilities and small numbers. Eleven boys tried out, and all are still on the squad.

Temporary baskets have been put up in the gym. Permanent ones will be added sometime before Christmas. The team was able to get on one half of the gym floor last week for the first time. It is not certain when the other half of the floor will be ready.

Army, Navy Scouts Have Healthy Respect for Each Others' Clubs

Annapolis, Md. —AP— Army and Navy are showing a traditionally healthy respect for each other's football prowess as they prepare for their annual football battle at Philadelphia Saturday.

Steven Belichick, chief scout for Navy, calls the Cadets

"the most explosive football er, 'and ought to win every team I've ever seen — much better and entirely different from the team we beat last year."

And Army's top scout, Dale Hall, said the Middies have a "tremendous" squad which could pose more of a threat to the Cadets than the one which won 14-0 last year.

Passing Stronger

"Their passing attack is stronger than it has been, and in halfback Joe Bellino passing team — one of the they have a greater individual threat," Hall sums up. Dawkins and Anderson take Madison — Coach Milt Bruhn says he is satisfied with this season's performance by Wisconsin's football team — until a better season comes along.

"The boys were in there fighting all the time and I have no complaints," Bruhn said of the Badgers' 27-12 victory over Minnesota Saturday.

The triumph gave Wisconsin second place in the Big Ten, right behind champion Iowa, the only team to beat Wisconsin in 1958. It was the best finish for the Badgers since 1952.

when they tied Purdue for the title.

Bruhn singled out Dale Hackbart and Jon Hobbs as two young men who did an outstanding job for the team.

"I think the kids did a good job of coming back after the Iowa loss and the tie at Ohio State," Bruhn said. "They picked themselves up when some players might have said 'what the heck'."

The tie with Ohio State and the loss to Iowa were the only things to mar Wisconsin's record (7-1-1) for the season.

In Saturday's finale for Wisconsin and Minnesota, a quick shifting offense by quarterbacks Hackbart and Sid Williams accounted for Wisconsin's first two touchdowns. Williams picked his way 20 yards in the first quarter to put the Badgers ahead for keeps. Then Hackbart raced seven yards for a 14-0 score in the second quarter.

Bob Zeman, a halfback, made the score read 20-0 in the third period with a 2-yard plunge that capped a 74-yard drive for the Minnesota goal.

77-Yard Pass Play

Minnesota, however, came up with the longest scoring thrust of the contest. A pass play covered a total of 77 yards, with quarterback Larry Johnson, throwing to Dick Johnson, for the Gophers first touchdown.

Then Wisconsin's Hackbart passed to Billy Hobbs on a play good for 44 yards in the final quarter for another touchdown.

Wisconsin used a variety of backfield alignments, including the straight T, winged T, double slot T, single slot T and the spread. All told the combinations rolled up 431 yards. Minnesota gained 293 yards, 215 of the total on passes.

Hackbart completed eight of 15 passes for 118 yards and picked up another 60 yards on 11 carries. Williams connected with four of six aeriels for 58 yards and carried the ball four times for 33 yards.

Coach Murray Warmath of Minnesota said he thought Wisconsin got a "gift" touchdown on Wisconsin's Hackbart-to-Hobbs pass play. Warmath said he believes Hackbart's knee touched the ground after he fumbled and then picked up the ball and threw to Hobbs when the ball should have been dead at that point.

Richardson-Olmedo Combine Reaches Tournament Semis

Sydney — "Ham" Richardson and Alex Olmedo, the probable U.S. Davis Cup doubles team, reached the semifinals of the New South Wales Tennis tournament today, defeating Australians Roy Emerson and Bob Mark, 4-6, 13-11, 10-8, 7-5.

The top Aussie pair of Mal Anderson and Neale Fraser kept pace, downing Andres Gimeno and Jose Arilla of Spain, 7-9, 11-9, 6-3, 6-1.

End Bill Howton (86) of the Green Bay Packers was unable to reach a "Babe" Parilli pass in the third quarter of Sunday's game in Milwaukee. The defender is Jim Ridlin of San Francisco. The 49ers won, 33-12.

game to turn an otherwise tight affair into a rout.

The Packers never were able to make the 49ers press, although they had a chance to go ahead 16-12 in the third quarter when Howton dropped a perfect 29-yard strike in the end zone. That was a real bad break for the Packers, as receivers—Howton (four catches), Joe Johnson three, and McGee one.

The Packers won the toss and the 49ers tried a surprise right away, an onside kickoff that was recovered by Merlens. They scored in three plays from the Packer 43. Wilson took Tittle's pass for six yards and the touchdown. Dan Currie blasted up the middle to block Soltau's point try.

The Packers scored nine points after an exchange of punts. Hornung booted a 41-yard field goal to make it 6-3 at 6:20. Soltau missed one from the 48.

Made 80 Yards

The Packers then moved 80 yards in six plays to take a 9-6 lead. Howton took Parilli's 16-yard pitch in the corner of the end zone at 9:25. Hornung's kick was blocked by Hazeltine.

McElhenny raced 34 yards to the Packer 46 and Bill Forster was hurt and lost for the day. Marv Matuzak, the former 49er who joined the Packers this week, finished out.

Early in the second quarter Bobby Dillon and Hank Gremminger were injured on successive plays and had to leave, although they returned later. Soltau's 17-yard field goal tied the count at 9-7 at 6:17 of the second frame.

Two Tittle passes to Owen for 46 yards set up another Soltau field goal shortly before the half, from the 36. Ray Nitschke and Tom Bettis pushed the center into Soltau's kick, blocking it.

Nitschke Blocks FG

Later, Soltau lined up for a field goal from the 50 but Nitschke blocked this one.

The 49ers took the second half kickoff and went down for a Soltau field goal, from the 26 for a 12-9 lead. The Packers came back in a hurry. Hornung turned the right end and stepped away and zig-zagged 55 yards to the Frisco 17 as the lights went on. After Howton dropped Parilli's pass, Hornung field goal from the 37 for a 12-12 score.

A bit later Soltau missed his sixth field goal try, the ball going slightly to the left from the 19.

Several plays later Wilson caught Tittle's 15-yarder for a touchdown. Soltau made the first point for 19-12.

The 49ers were allowed to wrestle with Parilli on the ground for the ball and they were given a fumble recovery. An interference penalty on Gremminger on Owens in the end zone put the 49ers on the Bay one and McElhenny cracked over. Soltau's kick made it 26-12.

Taylor fumbled the kickoff on the Packer 31 and Soltau recovered. On third down Owens caught a tipped-up pass in the end zone for 33-12.

There was more action to come. Francis ran 13 yards and completed two passes to Johnson for 23 yards before Ridlon recovered Johnson's fumble. Just before the end the players of both squads shortened their tempers and several fights broke out. On Pace's 18-yard run Bettis and Dugan mixed it up on the sidelines and the crowd raced out of the stands.

son Saturday, whipping Notre Dame, 31-21.

So here is how the major bowls shape up at the moment:

Sugar Bowl — Louisiana State (10-0) vs. opponent to be chosen, probably Southern Methodist or Clemson.

Rose Bowl — California (7-3) vs. Iowa (7-1-1).

Orange Bowl — Oklahoma (8-1) vs. Syracuse (8-1).

Cotton Bowl — Texas Christian (8-1) vs. opponent to be chosen, probably Air Force academy.

The Gator bowl, which ranks practically even with the others, has a wide choice, but probably won't know until the Sugar and Cotton bowls are filled.

Syracuse and Texas Christian cemented bowl bids in their final games Saturday, while the Air Force academy, according to Cotton bowl officials, wants to wait until its game with Colorado this week before making a decision.

Syracuse whipped past West Virginia, 15-12. Texas Christian won the Southwest conference title with a 21-10 decision over defending champion Rice.

Champions in three other major conferences were settled. To the surprise of no one, Oklahoma trampled Nebraska, 40-7, to win the Big Eight title for the eleventh year in a row. It also marked the seventy-first straight conference game without defeat for the Sooners.

Won Ivy Crown

Dartmouth won the Ivy league crown with a 21-2 victory over Princeton. Wyoming finished on top in the Skyline conference by licking Brigham Young, 22-14, and then accepted an invitation to play in the Sun bowl.

Auburn, Army and the Air Force are the only undefeated but tied major teams. All still have one game to go. Auburn, on probation by the NCAA and ineligible to play in bowl games, goes against Alabama Saturday. Army plays Navy in the big service game in Philadelphia, and Air Force tackles Colorado.

Auburn stopped Wake Forest, 21-7, and Air Force dumped New Mexico, 45-7, while Army was idle Saturday.

49er Fan in New York Pays $45.30 (Plus Tax) to Hear Tilt

Green Bay — (AP) — A local radio station Sunday had a pay-as-you hear listener — a San Francisco 49er football fan who happened to be in New York.

An announcer at WJPG answered the telephone and heard a man in New York asking him to place the phone near a radio speaker so he could hear the San Francisco-Green Bay Packers game, which was played in Milwaukee.

For more than 2½ hours, the man in New York stayed at a pay telephone. The man paid for the connection even during halftime.

When the game ended in a 33-12 San Francisco victory, the man thanked the announcer and, declining to give his name, hung up.

A long distance charge operator here said that a 2½-hour station-to-station telephone call from New York to Green Bay on Sunday would cost $45.30, plus tax.

the defending world champions from title consideration. The San Francisco 49ers moved past them into fourth place with a 33-12 victory over the last-place Green Bay Packers.

Lights The Spark

Unitas, who suffered two cracked ribs in the Green Bay game three weeks ago, lit that spark the first time he passed. Dodging tackles behind scrimmage at his own 42, he hit speedy receiver Lennie Moore on the Ram 18 and the former Penn State halfback kept going for the score.

The play gave Unitas 22 straight NFL games in which he has passed for at least one TD. The record is 23.

It was Unitas' thirteenth scoring pass of the season, and he later made it fourteen by hitting Jim Mutscheller with an 12-yard TD toss in the Colts' 21-point fourth period. In that same period, Unitas scored on a 1-yard plunge. He passed for 218 yards over-all, connecting on 14 of 20.

Doubts Wisdom of Giving Nuclear Arms To W. German Forces

Geneva — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn) chairman of the senate disarmament subcommittee, said Saturday equipping the West German army with nuclear weapons might undermine the moral position of the North Atlantic alliance.

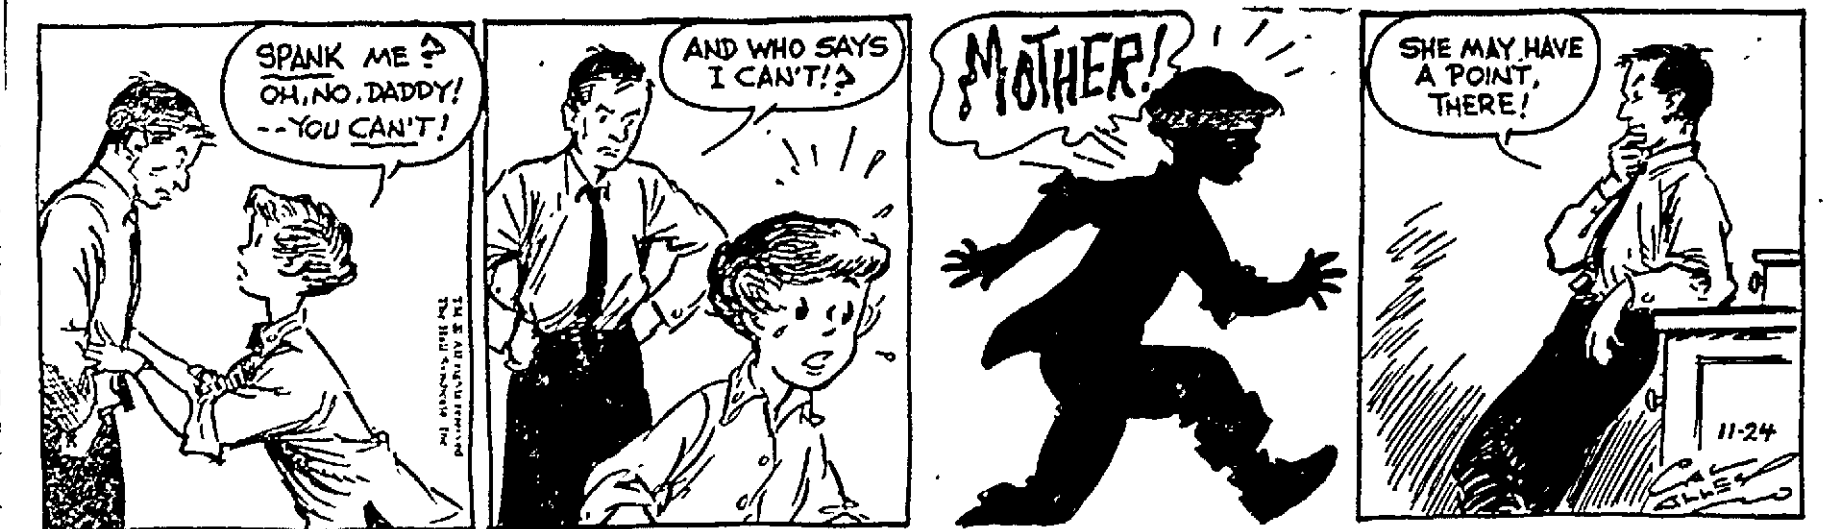

He told a news conference that the United States and Britain should carefully weigh the political consequences before deciding to share nuclear arms with the German federal republic. The question is to be discussed at a meeting of NATO in Paris next month.

"It is one thing to keep our commitments to our allies," he said, "but quite another thing for the United States to take the lead in sharing its nuclear weapons at the very time when we are talking about limiting their use."

This was a reference to the east-west negotiations here on controlled suspension of nuclear tests.

Humphrey said if western Germany receives nuclear weapons, "it will pose a problem for the Soviets, who will then be under pressure to give nuclear weapons to the Chinese."

Push United Fund Drive in Milwaukee

A study approving an annual united fund raising campaign has been released in Milwaukee by a unit of the Greater Milwaukee committee.

The possibility of an all-inclusive organization combining fund drives also has been discussed in Appleton. Campaigns outside the Community Chest drive conducted here each October have fanned support for one organization covering all agencies.

The Milwaukee committee for a new organization known as "United Community Services, Inc." The organization would merge operations of both the city's Community Chest and the Red Cross—the two largest non-sectarian fund-raising agencies in Milwaukee.

As proposed, the new Milwaukee organization would consist of two groups—a fund raising agency controlled by an overall planning body.

The 3-year study also recommended the inclusion of every health organization seeking support in Milwaukee county into the single agency. This suggestion is aimed at eight other Milwaukee affiliates of national health groups.

Supporters of the "all in one" program believe duplication of time and energy of volunteer solicitors will be eliminated and campaign expenses will be reduced.

The Milwaukee study points to employer and employee groups which have found it impossible to meet all requests for in-plant solicitations. Many donate only to the Community Chest and Red Cross.

Plan proponents also are worried about drive personnel. Civic leaders face the problem of not enough qualified volunteers to carry out month ago while he was on program. Employers have a leave.

tremendous waste in man-hours.

The research committee warned there is a "current conflict" nationally and locally on whether funds should be raised to fight specific diseases in a "give one for all campaign" or in a separate drive for each agency.

Separationist Policy

The committee noted that many national health organizations have adopted "separationist policies" which forbid their affiliates to join united appeals.

Among these are the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, American Cancer society, American Heart Association and the National Tuberculosis association.

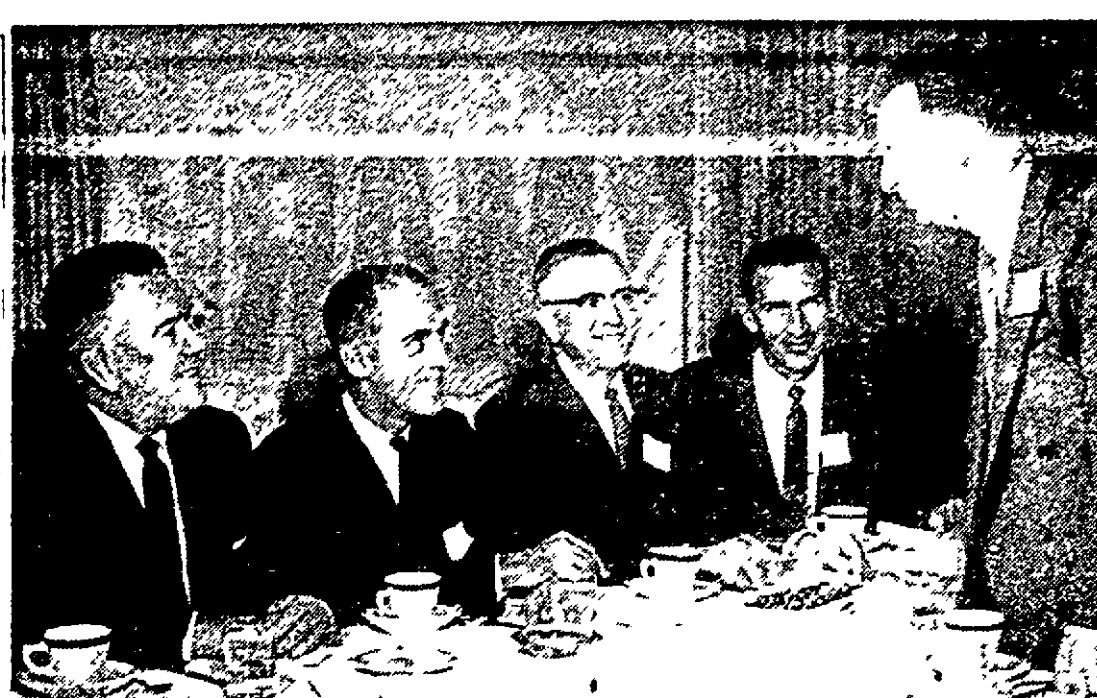

Some of these local units have ignored national policies to join community drives.

In 1955 the American Red Cross authorized its chapters to participate in united funds. This year about 1,000 Red Cross chapters received half or all of their money from united appeals.

7 'Possibles' For Archbishop At Milwaukee

Names Familiar To Green Bay Diocese Mentioned

The names of seven clergymen, including two familiar in the Green Bay diocese, have been mentioned as possible successors to the archbishop post in the Milwaukee archdiocese.

Just whom Pope John XXIII will pick to succeed Archbishop Albert G. Meyer, who was elevated to head the Chicago archdiocese, is not known.

However, names mentioned include the Most Rev. John B. Grellinger, auxiliary bishop of Green Bay, and the Most Rev. Aloysius J. Muench, apostolic nuncio to West Germany and bishop of Fargo, N. D.

Bishop Grellinger is a former Milwaukeean and has studied in Rome. The Vatican tends to look with "paternal affection" upon former students in Rome.

Relative at Neenah

Bishop Muench was born in Milwaukee Feb. 18, 1889, and served as rector of St. Francis seminary there. He is the first American to be named papal nuncio to Germany. Bishop Muench has a brother, Joseph, who lives at Neenah.

Bishop Muench has been in Germany since 1946 has an excellent command of the German language, and his feeling for events in both Germany and Poland would make him especially welcome among Milwaukee's Germans and Poles, prelates believe.

Other prominent clergymen frequently mentioned in connection with the Milwaukee post are the Most Rev. Joseph M. McShea, auxiliary bishop of Philadelphia; the Most Rev. William P. O'Connor, bishop of Madison; the Most Rev. Roman R. Atkielski, auxiliary bishop of Milwaukee; the Most Rev. William Cousins, bishop of Peoria; and the Most Rev. Martin J. O'Connor, rector of the North American College, Rome.

Seymour Man Still Watching Sputnik Rocket Carrier

Norman E. Miller, route 1, Seymour, says Fox Cities people still can get a clear view of the rocket carrier for Sputnik III.

Late Sunday afternoon, he watched it for about 10 minutes from his farm west of Seymour.

Miller reports that his information, from Gale V. Highsmith, of the Milwaukee Astronomical society, shows this schedule for visibility of the rocket carrier this week:

Monday, 6 p.m.; Tuesday, 6:30 p.m.; Wednesday, 5:23 p.m. and 6:55 p.m.; Thursday, 5:43 p.m. and 7:15 p.m.; Friday, 5:58 p.m., and Saturday 4:37 p.m. and 6:08 p.m.

The rocket carrier, shot into space May 15, should re-enter the atmosphere early next month, Miller said.

On days when there will be but one showing, Miller says the rocket carrier will travel from northwest to southeast.

On days of two showings, face north-northwest and the carrier will appear to be coming at you during the first showing, he said. For the second showing, the carrier will appear about 40 degrees above the horizon in the west and travel south-southwest.

Blue Monday Brings Cover Of White

Blue Monday, bluer, in fact, than the thumb of an Eskimo hutchhiker, brought sparkling snow and the threat of the coldest weather of the season to the Fox Cities.

The first general snowfall of the year brought 2 1/2 inches of the white stuff to Appleton and, on the heels of the snow, will come fresh blasts of Arctic air which may send the thermometer to its lowest point of the year tonight.

An area seven miles south of Madison received the heaviest amount of snow—three to four inches.

The mercury in Appleton dropped into the mid-20s overnight after readings in the 30s Sunday. Much of the snow which fell overnight had melted by mid-morning.

Readings in sections of the state may be as low as 8 degrees above zero tonight, according to the weather bureau.

Leader Wants Britain
To Loosen Grip on Mediterranean Isle

London — The former prime minister of Malta is pressing demands that Britain loosen its grip on the strategic Mediterranean island. Miss Mabel Strickland, head of Malta's small progressive constitutional party, supports closer ties with Britain. All three leaders are here to work out with the British a new constitution to replace the one abrogated last April when Mintoff's labor government resigned and left the island without a parliament. An unemployment crisis on the island has increased pressure for a solution. Joblessness on the island has grown steadily since the British closed down several naval stations.

Elections Show Public's Desire for More Services, Lippmann Says

BY WALTER LIPPMANN

For the next two years the president must live with a congress which has a strong Democratic majority and in this majority the Northern Democrats will have more power than they had before. In the new Congress, the public's demand for more services and public facilities and on national defense. This can be said not only of most of the Democrats, it is conspicuously true of Nelson Rockefeller.

In Eisenhower's definition, the new governor of New York is a "spender" in that he stands for a much enlarged public effort to meet public needs.

Lippmann says, "There can be little question, it seems to me, that Rockefeller did not win the election only because he is an attractive man with a celebrated and greatly respected name. He won it because he is identified in the public mind with a long, persistent, varied, and expert concern with the public needs of this growing and expanding nation."

Before the president adopts a stubborn and sterile opposition to what the younger generation is up to, he should make a careful study of Rockefeller's victory. For there is also a professional politician and he has already made it plain that he knows what is happening. There is a new tide running through our affairs. It is not primarily a Democratic tide.

No doubt, it would be wrong to regard as being definite the Republicans act like a lot and conclusive Eisenhower's of complaining old codgers, first reaction on the morning like the old cronies of Colonel after election day. Yet there is truth — though it was not the whole or the main truth — in his saying that the elector-ate "obviously voted for people at least outside the south, are ple that I would class among the whole younger and the spenders." It is true that more modern and less stogy than are most of the Republicans who run for office. What is this tide which has brought in both Mr. Rockefeller and a great Democratic majority? It is propelled, I believe, by the growing conviction, based on personal experience of living in countless American communities, that our public needs are not being adequately met. The face of America has changed since Dwight Eisenhower was a boy in Kansas. We have become in large part a mass society living in congested urban agglomerations. One half of our people live in metropolitan areas; in the six northeastern states four-fifths of the people live close together in such metropolitan areas.

This is not the only reason, but it is an important and a sufficient reason, why the country today is compelled to spend on civilian projects more public money than it used to spend. Out in the country or even in small villages, the individual can do many things for himself which in the city must be done by public enterprise. There is no need to labor the obvious. When a community grows from, let us say, 10,000 inhabits to 100,000, the cost of the public services required is bound to go up more than 10 times. For the larger community requires extensive facilities — as, for example, wider roads and underpasses — which the small town does not have to have at all.

Poor In Services Because of the great cost of the second World war and the very large cost of the cold war, this country, which is a very different country from what it was twenty years ago, is in a predicament. It is rich in the things that money can buy and it is, speaking comparatively, poor in the services and the facilities that private enterprise cannot supply.

From now on, barring at least, he should look squarely at the vast complex of diffi-culties which are being caused by the lag in our public services, and at the human predicament which this lag sub-jects our people. In it lies the real problem of spending. The problem is whether the productivity of our economy can be increased so that public spending years, will be greatly concerned with the lag in the spending, perhaps even while permitting an increase in pri-levages, with the lag in hospi-tate spending. This will be the subject of a great debate with the deficiency of high-ways and the backwardness of our transportation. There are, no doubt, many of different conclusions to be drawn from all this. But the slum clearance. The future will be concerned with the conservation and the development of our nat-ural resources, with the water budget and its $12 billion deficit. He should look also at the problem of the econ-omy which is still running be-tion of the air, and with many low capacity. And last but not other consequences of the ex-traordinary growth of our population, its conglomer-ation in big urban masses, and the shaking up of the human people's habits due to the services, and at the human predicament which this lag sub-jects our people.
